Half-brothers and half-sisters are related parties. The percentage of stock owned by the foresaid related parties does not need to be disclosed, but the percentage should be aggregated with the percentage of stock owned by the specified U.S. person for the purpose of determining the total percentage of stock owned by that specified U.S. person. For a financial institution within jurisdiction of a Model 2 Inter-government Agreement (IGA) country in accordance of the FATCA regulations, the aforementioned "substantial U.S. owner" may be treated as "controlling person who is a U.S. individual", while criteria of controlling person may be in accordance with local anti-money laundry regulations. In the case of Taiwan, the authority has reached an agreement in substance with the U.S. treasury as to the Model 2 IGA between Taiwan and US, and therefore the IGA is treated as if in effect. The Client should understand the definition under the domestic tax laws of each jurisdiction. For example: the tax resident status of the legal person/entity is based on the country or region in which the registration was made; the entity without a resident status, limited liability partnership or similar legal arrangement is deemed to be the "the resident of Place of Effective Management"; Individuals may have more than one country's tax resident status (multiple places of residence).

4. The Client undertakes to advise the Bank of any change in circumstances which affects the tax residency status of the individual identified in the "Basic Information and Declaration" of this form or causes the information contained herein to become incorrect or incomplete, and to provide the Bank with a suitably updated self-certification form within 30 days of such change in circumstances. I acknowledge and agree that the Bank is rightful to reasonably identify the authenticity of the above declaration or changes in the circumstances and take the necessary actions with regards to my account, including, but not limited to, processing U.S. tax payment or terminating / suspending the account service. I agree to be fully liable for any damage, loss, penalty incurred by the Bank while in violation of relevant tax regulations (including but not limited to Taiwan (ROC) tax regulations).
5. The Client is aware that the documents contained and information regarding the Account Holder, the Controlling Person and any Reportable Account(s) may be provided to the tax authorities of the Taiwan (ROC) and exchanged with tax authorities of another country (ies)/jurisdiction(s) in which the Account Holder may be a tax resident pursuant to intergovernmental agreements to exchange financial account information for tax purposes.
6. The Client hereby has agreed the statement of use of the Bank Personal Information, and acknowledge that for complying with FATCA, it is necessary for the Bank to collect, process and use my personal information, including my name, nationality, passport number, date of birth, contact information, and U.S. taxpayer identification number (U.S. Social Security Number), etc.
7. The Client agrees to directly debit any taxes and fees which the Client shall bear pursuant to the FATCA other than the transaction amount from any account to be paid or returned to the Bank or the savings account of the Client without prior notice.
8. The Client must solely assume all direct, indirect and potential losses caused to itself by any untrue content of documents it presents to the Bank, including, without limitation, IRS tax documents, declaration of FATCA status and relevant identification filed. V. Terms and Conditions for New Taiwan Dollar and Foreign Currency Demand Deposit Accounts -

1. The Client agrees to be bound by the terms and conditions set forth herein for establishing a demand deposit account. In the absence of specific provisions, these general terms and conditions shall apply.
2. Transaction Procedures:
 - A. Passbook Account:

For account deposits and withdrawals, the Client shall present the passbook and complete the deposit or withdrawal slips, along with any other required documents. For counter withdrawals using the non-passbook transaction method, the Client must personally conduct the transaction at the counter, sign on the transaction instructions, or use any other mutually agreed method. The Client shall also present a valid original identification document; the passbook is the basis for account reconciliation.
 - B. Passbook-Free Accounts:

Clients may choose a passbook-free account based on their needs. The deposit and withdrawal slip and other relevant documents must be presented for account deposit and withdrawal. Individual clients, when conducting an over-the-counter withdrawal, must sign the transaction instructions personally at the counter or via other agreed methods and present a valid original identification document. A "withdrawal password" is used for withdrawals. A comprehensive statement will be sent by Bank SinoPac monthly for client reconciliation. Should no transaction be made, no statement would be sent.
3. Withdrawal Password at the Counter
 - A. The Client may agree to add a "withdrawal password" to the demand deposit account for cash withdrawal transactions at the counter and may request a password change at any time. The Client shall memorize the password, keep it confidential, and reapply if forgotten.
 - B. The Client agrees that, under special circumstances (including but not limited to fax transactions, receipt, and payment transactions by Bank SinoPac staff when they go out, advance receipt transactions, incorrect account correction and re-entry transactions by Bank SinoPac, computer offline or operation failures due to other reasons, etc.), the "withdrawal password" is not required.
4. Interest Payments
 - A. The interest rate for demand deposits is calculated on a daily simple interest basis based on the deposit type, currency, and period, according to the daily published rates by Bank SinoPac. Interest is settled on the 20th of each month and paid on the 21st. If the settlement date falls on a holiday, it will be settled on the last business day before the holiday, and interest will be paid on the first day. If the interest rate is adjusted, the interest will be calculated from the adjustment date.
 - B. No interest will be accrued for daily deposit balances below the minimum amount specified by Bank SinoPac. The minimum interest-earning amounts are as follows:
 - a. For New Taiwan Dollar (NTD) deposits: NT$10,000 for demand deposits and NT$10,000 for savings deposits.
 - b. For foreign currency deposits: USD100, GBP90, HKD1,000, CHF100, AUD100, SGD150, JPY10,000, SEK1,000, CAD100, ZAR1,000, EUR90, NZD150, CNY1.
 - C. The daily closing balance of deposits will be grouped into intervals based on the same balance amount. Each interval will be multiplied by its corresponding annual interest rate and divided by the number of interest calculation days, rounded to the nearest whole number. The interest calculation days are 365 days for NTD, HKD, GBP, SGD, and ZAR deposits and 360 days for other foreign currency deposits, according to the published rates by Bank SinoPac.

Example: For the interest calculation period from 03/21 to 04/20, based on the balance and interest rate in the table, the total interest amount is NT$4.

Period	Balance	Interest Rate	Days	Interest	Rounded Amount
03/21~03/22	20,000	0.30%	2	0.3287	0
03/23~04/20	16,000	0.30%	29	3.8137	4

- D. For transactions related to current deposits, such as cash, transfers, remittance deposits, and/or withdrawals, conducted through automated teller machines (ATMs) or online banking during non-business hours (including holidays), the interest calculation starts from the date of deposit or withdrawal. The cutoff time for determining the transaction date is 11:00 p.m. Whether the transaction passes the designated cut-off time for daily interest calculation shall be determined according to the time when the Bank SinoPac mainframe computer system receives the transaction file or data.
- E. the interest calculation begins after the instrument is honored for deposits made using negotiable instruments.
5. Interbank Payments:
Upon opening an account, the Client may withdraw funds from the account-opening branch and other branches of Bank SinoPac. The Client who has chosen alternative methods shall still adhere to the original agreement. The Client agrees to fill out a withdrawal slip for each withdrawal. If it is mutually agreed that the transaction requires a passbook, the Client shall present it at the time and agree to abide by the daily withdrawal limit set by Bank SinoPac. Nonetheless, in the event of offline computer systems or other operational issues, the Client agrees only to withdraw funds from the account-opening branch.
6. The Client who has chosen a passbook account as their transaction method may still perform consecutive transactions without the passbook (including over-the-counter, bank card, automated computer transactions, etc.) However, once the cumulative number of transactions without the passbook reaches the limit set by Bank SinoPac, Bank SinoPac will consolidate the unrecorded transactions as one debit and one credit entry without sending a separate record of such transactions. Nevertheless, the Client may request a printed record from the Bank.
7. The passbook deposit cannot be transferred or pledged. Each page of the passbook is numbered, and the Client must not tear, fill in, or alter its contents. The Client should promptly notify Bank SinoPac for verification and correction if any error is found. In the event of a discrepancy between the passbook balance and the computer records of Bank SinoPac, the balance indicated in the Bank's computer records shall prevail.

VI. Agreed Terms on New Taiwan Dollar and Foreign Currency Time Deposits -

1. The Client may appoint an agent to liaise with Bank SinoPac to establish time deposits, withdrawal of deposit principal and interest, or other transactions. Bank SinoPac may process the said transactions based on the certificate of deposit, notice, or application form presented by the agent, which bears the Client's original seal.
2. Depending on their nature, New Taiwan Dollar and foreign currency time deposits can be categorized into lump-sum withdrawal of principal and interest upon maturity or monthly interest payment with principal withdrawal upon maturity. If the Client early-terminates or does not authorize Bank SinoPac to renew the deposit on the date of maturity, or if the number of renewals exceeds the maximum number set by Bank SinoPac and the principal and interest are not withdrawn after the due date, the interest payment for the early-termination or overdue portion shall be calculated according to Article 10 of this Agreement.
3. The duration of the time deposit is subject to the information on the front of the certificate of deposit or the agreement on the deposit voucher. If the Client offsets all or part of the deposit amount with a note, the certificate of deposit shall take effect only after the note is cashed; if the deposit is made through domestic interbank remittance, it shall take effect only after Bank SinoPac confirms the credit.
4. Interest Payment:
A. Interest on time deposits is calculated daily based on the type of deposit, currency, duration, and interest rate. Compound interest is applied to lump-sum savings deposits, while simple interest is applied to other time deposits.
B. If the interest payment date of the certificate of deposit falls on a holiday, the interest shall be settled until the day before the next business day, and the interest will be paid on the next business day.
C. The interest amount is acquired by multiplying the principal of each certificate of deposit by the actual number of deposit days and the annual interest rate before then divided by the interest calculation period. The interest calculation period for deposits in New Taiwan Dollar, Hong Kong Dollar, British Pound, Singapore Dollar, South African Rand, etc., is calculated as 365 days per year according to the Bank SinoPac's prevailing interest rate; for other foreign currencies, it is calculated as 360 days per year according to the Bank SinoPac's prevailing interest rate.
- D. According to the Client and Bank SinoPac agreement, the interest is calculated at the fixed or floating interest rate posted by Bank SinoPac when the deposit is renewed.
5. Principle on installment payment and automatic deduction for regular savings deposit: The method of installment payment must be agreed to automatically deduct the deposited amount from the current savings deposit account under Bank SinoPac's comprehensive deposit item (Bank SinoPac may adjust the number and time of automatic deductions according to the system batch). The automatic deduction day is the designated day from the next month of the billing day, and if the designated day falls on a holiday, it will be advanced to the previous business day; if it is past the automatic deduction date of Bank SinoPac, the Client has to pay at the counter.
6. Procedures for overdue installment payment of regular savings deposit: If the installment is overdue for more than four (4) days, the Client shall pay the overdue interest to Bank SinoPac according to the overdue date at the originally agreed interest rate and authorize Bank SinoPac to deduct the according amount directly from the Client's account. The installment will be considered a suspended deposit if it is not paid for more than six periods. For the suspended deposit, at maturity and the withdrawal of the paid installment, the principal shall continue to accrue interest at the original agreed interest rate on a simple interest basis.
7. For the time deposit with a specified date of maturity, the interest is calculated at Bank SinoPac's prevailing interest rate for the actual full-month deposited period; if Bank SinoPac does not set the prevailing interest rate for the specific full-month period, the Bank SinoPac shall adopt the lower prevailing interest rate of the previous period posted by Bank SinoPac and calculate the interest according to the actual deposit period (including fractional days of the incomplete month).
8. Without the consent of Bank SinoPac, the Client shall not transfer this time deposit or set up a pledge with a third party.
9. Agreement on renewal before the maturity of time deposits (automatic rollover):
A. Whether at the time of or after opening an account, the Client may apply for automatic rollover renewal at maturity in writing or in other ways agreed by Bank SinoPac. The deposit with the automatic rollover renewal is restricted to the same type and period as the original deposit, and the renewal interest rate is calculated according to the following standards:
a. The original certificate interest rate shall be determined based on the prevailing interest rate published by Bank SinoPac at the time of deposit. The renewal interest rate shall be based on the prevailing interest rate published by Bank SinoPac on the day of renewal for the corresponding

- passbook, providing a foundation for the Client's reconciliation.
3. With regard to the balance of the demand deposit under this agreement, the Client may consent to maintain a predetermined balance at the end of the day with Bank SinoPac (varying by currency). This empowers Bank SinoPac to automatically transfer the integral portion surpassing the reserved balance (dependent on currency. It is NT$ 10,000 for New Taiwan Dollar or integral multiples thereof; for foreign currency, each increment is 1,000 dollars) to the time deposit of a mutually agreed period, the transfer date being the date interest accrues. Should the Client not agree to the automatic transfer, he/she is obliged to manage each instance separately with Bank SinoPac.
In the event the Client desires to alter the reserved balance, transfer amount, or agreed term, Bank SinoPac shall make corresponding adjustments in accordance with the new deposit agreement subsequent to receiving notification from the Client to alter the original deposit agreement. Notwithstanding, existing time deposits remain unaffected.
4. The Client is granted discretion to process a pledge loan for this account as needed. Should he/she decide to apply for a pledge loan, he/she approves to adhere to the following terms. Nevertheless, if a minor, the Client is ineligible to apply for a pledge loan.
- A. The Client concedes that, in applying for a pledge loan to Bank SinoPac, he/she is prepared to pledge all the Time Deposits deposited under this agreement to Bank SinoPac to safeguard the Client's current or prospective loans under this General Agreement. During the term of the pledge loan, if the loan sum does not surpass the agreed limit upon maturity of the time deposit, Bank SinoPac may determine, at its discretion, whether to automatically renew the principal and interest under the original conditions. The Client also consents not to transfer or pledge the Time Deposit to a third party without explicit authorization.
- B. Pledge Loan Amount:
The Client may utilize a pledge loan within a limit of 95% of the aggregate time deposit amount in the identical currency under this agreement. Upon completion of the pledge loan procedure, if the current deposit under this account is insufficient to settle the Client's debts resulting from the various withdrawals, the deficit will promptly constitute the Client's pledge loan amount without necessitating another loan certificate. Nonetheless, the pledge loan amount is restrained from exceeding the aforementioned 95% ceiling.
- C. Pledge Loan Term:
The term of this pledge loan may not surpass the maturity date of each time deposit, and each pledge loan may not exceed the initial maturity date of each time deposit. However, provided the Client has no default and no expressed disagreement, the term of the pledge loan may be automatically renewed after Bank SinoPac's consent, and the interest rate of the pledge loan for this renewed agreement shall adhere to Bank SinoPac's regulations at the time of renewal.
- D. The Interest Rate of The Pledge Loan:
The interest rate is calculated by adding base points to the weighted average of interest rates of each time deposit with the same currency and period (each 'basis point' represents 0.25% as the annual interest rate) and is adjusted concurrently with changes in the interest rate of the time deposit. Bank SinoPac may revise the added range of the aforementioned loan interest rate as needed, to which the Client raises no objections.
The pledge loan interest rate of New Taiwan Dollar Comprehensive Deposit equals the weighted average of interest rates of the Time Deposit in the same account plus an additional 1.5%. The pledge loan of foreign currency composite deposit is confined to the same currency, and the interest rate is the weighted average of interest rates of time deposit for a single term in its corresponding currency plus 2%.
- E. Interest Calculation and Repayment Approach:
- a. Interest is calculated monthly and deducted from the demand deposit balance in the same currency as the pledge loan. Any insufficient amount is deemed as a loan and rolled into the principal. Nonetheless, the cumulative balance of the loan principal and interest shall not exceed the original loan limit.
- b. Upon utilization of the pledged loan limit by the Client, all demand deposits in the same currency into this account as the Client authorizes the loan for Bank SinoPac to repay the principal directly. Should it coincide with the interest calculation date, the interest will first be repaid, with the remaining amount used to repay the principal. Lay payment charge on overdue amounts is calculated at the original loan interest rate, with an additional 10% of delayed interest for overdue periods within six months and an additional 20% for overdue periods longer than six months as penalty interest.
- c. Bank SinoPac may change the aforementioned currency for pledged loans and the method of interest calculation as needed. Any change in the currency for pledged loans (whether an increase or decrease) will take effect from the date of adjustment by Bank SinoPac, while the method of interest calculation will be updated upon renewal at the expiration of the original contract. No separate signed agreement is required from the Client.
- F. Method of Utilization:
When pledging, the Client shall withdraw the fund directly from this account by withdrawal voucher or other methods agreed upon by Bank SinoPac.
- G. The Time deposits in this deposit account are eligible for rollover or renewal upon maturity. The Client may apply for a loan secured by the Time Deposit with Bank SinoPac. If the loan amount exceeds the limit in Paragraph 2 of this Article, the Client agrees to repay the excess immediately. If the Client fails to repay the outstanding amount within the specified period, Bank SinoPac may, pursuant to the conditions set forth regarding premature termination of time deposits and overdue payment procedures, automatically terminate the Client's Time Deposit account in order to settle the principal, interest, deferred interest, default penalties, and other fees. If the funds are insufficient, the Client is required to make immediate repayment. If the loan amount secured by the Time Deposit falls within the limit specified in Paragraph 2 of this Article, Bank SinoPac will extend the maturity of the Time Deposit in sync with the loan secured by the Time Deposit.
- H. When the time deposit under this deposit expires or is terminated, the Client authorizes Bank SinoPac to transfer the full amount to the demand deposit account in the same currency under this Agreement on the expiry or termination day. However, if the Client has pledged a loan to Bank SinoPac, the loan will expire at the same time as the deposit expires or is terminated. Bank SinoPac can repay the loan principal and interest directly and then transfer the remaining funds to the demand deposit account in the same currency under this Agreement. If the balance of the demand deposit account has reached the rollover conditions separately agreed by the Client and Bank SinoPac, the deposit will still be automatically rolled over by the Bank SinoPac operating system with the said day as the interest commencement date.
5. If the Client has signed a separate loan agreement with Bank SinoPac, and this comprehensive deposit account has been designated as the account for the loan collection, Bank SinoPac will conduct corresponding procedures according to the following agreement of borrowing at a lower rate and repayment at a higher rate:
- A. The Client's access to the credit facilities, inclusive but not limited to the limit associated with the Time Deposit under this Agreement, will be deployed sequentially, adhering to the hierarchy of the lower stipulated interest rates.
- B. Should the total amount of the Client's already used credit, together with interest, exceed the original credit limit, the Client agrees and authorizes Bank SinoPac to directly allocate funds from the credit with the next lower interest rate to offset the exceeded amount during monthly interest calculation, without the necessity for the Client to make a separate application for fund allocation.

- C. The Client's debt repayment order shall follow the sequence: fees, penalty for breach of contract, late interest, interest, and principal. When the sequence of repayment is the same, priority shall be given to repayment of the part with a higher agreed interest rate.
- D. In instances where multiple credit facilities with corresponding interest rates exist, Bank SinoPac retains the right to choose which credit facility will be put into operation.

6. Other Provisions:

In the event that Bank SinoPac needs to withdraw funds from the Foreign Currency Composite Deposit Account due to the exercise of its right of pledge or other reasons, the Client, who is obligated to engage in foreign exchange transactions or currency conversions, hereby authorizes Bank SinoPac to perform such transactions on behalf of the Client for the purpose of offsetting the debt. The Client acknowledges and agrees to assume all exchange losses and/or transaction fees arising from the sale and purchase of foreign currencies or currency conversions. The Client shall not revoke this authorization without the prior consent of Bank SinoPac.

7. The Client agrees to settle all debts related to this account when closing the account. However, this does not apply without a separate loan transaction agreement.

VIII. Agreed Terms on Checking Deposit -

【Agreed Terms on Checking deposit】

1. Should a Client open a checking account, the stipulations in this Agreement shall take precedence. The Negotiable Instruments Act and the general provisions shall come into force for matters not expressly addressed herein.
2. The Client who makes a counter withdrawal shall affix the original seals on the check disbursed by Bank SinoPac. Nonetheless, any prior agreement between both parties shall prevail.
3. It is incumbent upon the Client to regulate the date of payment when issuing checks and ensure fund adequacy for payment. Bank SinoPac is not obligated to alert the Client to any insufficiency in check funds.
4. In the event of loss, theft, or fraudulent activity involving the Client's checks, blank checks, or seals, the Client shall adhere to the stop payment procedure standards promulgated by the competent authorities, as well as regulations pertaining to passbooks and stamp stop payment procedures of Bank SinoPac. The Client shall bear any liability arising from fraudulent acts before Bank SinoPac's acceptance of the stop payment written request. When reporting the loss of the checking account seals via the call center, the Client consents to Bank SinoPac proceeding with payment in accordance with the original seal prior to the acceptance of the stop payment and change of seal's written request.
5. When the Client issues a promissory note or draws a bill of exchange with Bank SinoPac acting as the place of payment or payer, it is required to separately constitute an "Application for Paying Agent Agreement," thereby designating Bank SinoPac as the paying agent. In the absence of a signed agreement, Bank SinoPac retains the right to decline payment on the grounds of not being entrusted with payment.
6. When the Client issues a check that designates Bank SinoPac as the payer, Bank SinoPac shall directly debit the sum from the Client's checking account.
7. Notwithstanding that checks, bills of exchange, and promissory notes may have surpassed their payment deadline upon presentation, should they fall within one year from the date of drawing for checks, three years from the date of maturity for bills of exchange and promissory notes (from the date of drawing for promissory notes with payment upon presentation); and the Client has not withdrawn his payment order or there exist no other impediments which prohibit payment, the Client consents to Bank SinoPac making the payment.
8. When Bank SinoPac effects payment based on the checks, irrespective of the date of the drawing, disbursements will be executed in accordance with the sequence in which the holder tenders them. In the event of multiple checks being tendered concurrently, Bank SinoPac reserves the right to determine the payment sequence. Furthermore, Bank SinoPac is mandated by law to withhold payment, even if the Client's deposit balance is adequate to cover the face value of the checks, should a notification of bankruptcy be received from the Client.
9. Should any of the entries and signatures on checks, bills of exchange, and promissory notes be subject to forgery, alteration, or tampering, Bank SinoPac will not be liable for compensation if it has exercised the due diligence of a good manager and it is impossible to identify with the naked eye.
10. Bank SinoPac is absolved from any obligation to provide compensation should it affect payment on checks prior to receipt of a court notice concerning a fraudulent disposition arising from the Client's checks being fraudulently appropriated.
11. The Client recognizes that the image data of checks retained by Bank SinoPac bears equivalent legal efficacy to the original checks drafted by the Client.
12. The Client grants Bank SinoPac the authority to debit the following from the checking account automatically:
 - A. The Client's tax or other public utility charges that the Client instructs the deduction unit to notify Bank SinoPac to pay.
 - B. Any loans and interest due to Bank SinoPac by the Client.
 - C. Any fees arising from the provision of services by Bank SinoPac.
 - D. Any other charges approved by the Ministry of Finance for Bank SinoPac to deduct as an agent on the Client's behalf.

【Note Credit Management Agreement】

1. Definitions

The terms utilized in this Note Credit Management Agreement are delineated as follows:

- A. "Dishonored Negotiable Instruments" shall mean negotiable instruments on which a financial institution has refused to pay and returned to the holder of such negotiable instrument with a completed dishonored slip.

Administrative, management, investment, trading, conversion, redemption, and other costs related to the issuers of the investment targets are usually directly deducted from the net asset value of the investment targets or implied in the spread between the buying and selling quotes and the net asset value of the investment targets. The Client should fully understand these beforehand.

Notwithstanding, the transaction business hours for the subscription of domestic money market, fixed-income, and particular types of funds (as specified in the prospectus or by the fund institution) are from 9:00 AM to 10:30 AM.

B. Investment Risk Disclosure and Precaution:

- a. “Trust Funds” refers to funds entrusted by the Client to Bank SinoPac for investment in domestic and foreign targets following specific instructions, distinct from the Client’s Time Deposits and not protected by deposit insurance laws, insurance stability funds, or other security mechanisms.
- b. Investment funds shall not be construed as Time Deposits. Bank SinoPac, fulfilling its obligations as a prudent manager, expressly disclaims any guarantees regarding the profit or loss of this trust fund and any minimum returns. The Client shall acknowledge the risks potentially associated with the investment targets and regions, inclusive of, but not limited to, the risk of over-concentration in specific stocks, industrial economic cycle risk, liquidity risk, market risk (including variations in political and economic conditions within the investment region, controls and fluctuations in foreign exchange, societal changes, prevailing interest rates, share prices, indices or fluctuations in the prices of other target assets), credit risk, risks inherent to structured investment products, transactions in securities-related products, and risks associated with specific investment targets or strategies. In consideration of the aforementioned risks, which may lead to a delay in the disbursement of redemption monies due to large-scale redemptions by the Client or suspension in the calculation of the redemption price, the Client shall not, under any circumstances, seek to hold Bank SinoPac liable or request it to share any resultant losses.
- c. Some fund institutions have established fair pricing adjustment mechanisms or anti-dilution mechanisms to protect the rights and interests of the Client. When high volatility or low liquidity events occur in the market or when the fund manager needs to trade securities in response to significant client subscriptions or redemptions, the fund institution will activate the fair pricing adjustment mechanism or anti-dilution mechanism to adjust the net asset value of the fund to protect the interests of the holders of that fund. The adjustment range may vary according to the rules of each fund institution.
- d. Non-Investment Grade Bond Funds (these funds primarily invest in high-risk bonds in Non-Investment Grade, and the interest payout may derive from the principal) are approved by the Financial Supervisory Commission (hereinafter referred to as the ‘FSC’), but such approval does not signify an absence of risk. Since the credit ratings of non-investment grade bonds may fall below investment grade or may not be credit-rated, and are highly sensitive to interest rate changes, the funds may suffer losses due to rising interest rates, declining market liquidity, or defaults by the bond-issuing institutions in payment of principal or interest, or bankruptcy. Investors should assess these factors prudently. Non-Investment Grade Bond Funds are not suitable for the Client who cannot bear related risks and is more suitable for the Client with investment attributes above the conservative level. Funds focusing on non-investment grade bonds should not constitute an excessively high proportion of their Portfolio. Non-Investment Grade Bond Funds may invest in U.S. 144A bonds, which are privately placed in nature and may expose the funds to risks of insufficient liquidity, incomplete financial information disclosure, or price opacity leading to high volatility.
- e. Investing in emerging markets may entail higher price fluctuations and lower liquidity risks than investing in developed countries. The Client should stay cautious in selecting investment targets.
- f. The management fee rate for “Fuh Hwa South Africa Fixed-Income ZAR Fund” is 1.2%, and for “Fuh Hwa South Africa Short-Term Income ZAR Fund” it is 1%. The aforementioned funds are priced in ZAR. Investors who invest in these funds after exchanging New Taiwan Dollars or other currencies not used for pricing the aforementioned funds must bear the risks of exchange rate fluctuations. The depreciation of ZAR against other currencies will result in exchange rate losses. “Fuh Hwa South Africa Short-Term Income ZAR Fund” and “Fuh Hwa South Africa Fixed-Income ZAR Fund” may hold investment targets in currencies other than the fund pricing currency; significant fluctuations across different currencies will affect the net asset value of the aforementioned funds calculated in ZAR. Investing in South Africa must bear the risks of potential changes in local politics, economy, regulatory systems, financial markets, and social conditions, which may directly or indirectly affect the returns of the market and investment instruments in which the aforementioned funds invest. If South Africa implements foreign exchange controls due to political and economic factors, it may render investment funds non-liquid or non-repatriable, causing the aforementioned funds to be unable to dispose of assets or pay redemption amounts.
- g. Funds invested in China are not wholly invested in securities in mainland China and shall comply with the relevant laws of the Republic of China: (1) The ratio of securities in mainland China’s securities market to the total investment of foreign funds must not exceed the ratio set by the Financial Supervisory Commission; (2) Although domestic investment trust funds investing in mainland China may include stocks, depositary receipts, or bonds with specific credit ratings traded on the centralized trading market, and there is no legal limit on the total amount of investment, they must still comply with Trust Agreements, fund prospectuses, and other related regulations, and must also be subject to the Qualified Foreign Institutional Investor (QFII) quota restrictions of the fund institution. Investors should also be aware of potential investment risks arising from market policies, laws and regulations, accounting and tax systems of the Chinese government, and the economic and related market changes during subscription.
- h. The distribution of dividends from the fund may emanate from either the fund’s income or principal. Any disbursement involving the principal could consequently result in a diminution of the original investment capital. Furthermore, such distribution may be effectuated without prior deduction of associated expenses, for which the fund is duly liable.
- i. Prior to subscription, the Client shall diligently review the Trust Agreements, risk disclosures, fund prospectuses, and investor guidelines; and comprehend potential risks, including the maximum possible loss of all principal and potential dividends.

Performance may vary due to different investment timings, and past performance does not guarantee future results. Although approved or accepted by the Financial Supervisory Commission, the fund is not risk-free. The fund manager's past performance does not guarantee the fund's minimum investment return, and aside from the duty of a prudent manager, the fund manager is not responsible for the fund's profits or losses. For funds entrusted for investment by Bank SinoPac, the prospectuses or investor guidelines are readily available. The Client may obtain them at Bank SinoPac branches or download them from the fund institution's website or the fund information observation station (<http://www.fundclear.com.tw>).

- j. The total return rate of the fund includes both the net value return rate and the dividend yield. The dividend yield of the fund is not synonymous with the fund's return rate, and past dividend yields do not represent future yields. In addition to potential fluctuations due to market factors, the net asset value of the fund may also vary due to dividend policies.
 - k. Upon redemption of back-loaded funds, the fund institution shall levy a deferred processing fee in accordance with the Client's holding duration, and said fee shall be subtracted from the aggregate redemption sum. Furthermore, the fund institution shall, in strict compliance with the stipulations set forth in the prospectus, assess a distribution fee at a prescribed percentage of the fund's net asset value; such payment shall be unilaterally subtracted from the daily net asset value of each respective fund.
 - l. This risk disclosure and notice only list essential parts and cannot detail all investment risks and market-influencing factors for all funds. Before investing, the Client must thoroughly study this risk disclosure and notice, make proper financial planning and risk assessment, and carefully review the public prospectuses and investor notices of the funds entrusted to Bank SinoPac, to avoid suffering losses that are difficult to bear.
- C. Regulations regarding Domestic and Foreign Funds' Short-term Trading:
- a. The provisions concerning short-term trading are detailed in the prospectus and the notes for investors of foreign funds. If the Client violates the regulations related to short-term trading, foreign fund institutions may reserve the right to refuse to accept the Client's transactions, or they may charge higher processing fees and conversion fees.
 - b. If the Client breaches the regulations on short-term trading of domestic funds, the fund institution may also reserve the right to refuse to accept the Client's transactions, or charge higher processing fees and conversion fees. The Client should read in detail the related content in the fund prospectus.
 - c. The Client agrees that, should the foreign fund institution determine that short-term trading is involved, Bank SinoPac is authorized to furnish the overseas fund institution and its principal representatives with relevant information including the Client's name and identification number, in compliance with the requirements of the jurisdiction in which the overseas fund is registered.

If there are two or more investment targets, resulting in an insufficient balance, the Client agrees to follow the order of Bank SinoPac's debit operations, and the Client may not specify the order or express any objection.
 - b. For individual Dollar Cost / Value Averaging Investment Trust Agreements, if the Client fails to keep sufficient debit amount in the designated debit account for three consecutive times, Bank SinoPac may temporarily suspend the respective Trust Agreement unless the parties agree otherwise.
 - c. For individual Dollar Cost / Value Averaging Investment Trust Agreements, if the debit fails three consecutive times since the first entrusted debit date, it will be deemed that the Client has terminated that Trust Agreement.
 - d. For individual Dollar Cost / Value Averaging Investment Trust Agreements, if the Client wishes to redeem all the invested principal which has been debited, the Client must separately instruct Bank SinoPac to either (1) terminate the Trust Agreement and no longer continue the debit or (2) maintain the original Dollar Cost / Value Averaging Investment Agreement and continue the debit.
 - e. On the redemption day of Dollar Cost / Value Averaging Investment Funds, if you want to redeem all the invested principal and terminate the Trust Agreement without continuing the debit, and the Fund has been debited for that time, Bank SinoPac will first execute the redemption transaction for all 'reported' investment principal and immediately stop the debit. The remaining 'unreported' investment principal will be automatically redeemed on the next business day after the fund institution reports. If you want to maintain the original Dollar Cost / Value Averaging Investment and continue the debit, only the 'reported' investment principal will be redeemed.
 - f. In the event of a fund liquidation, Bank SinoPac may automatically terminate the debiting of the Client's Dollar Cost / Value Averaging Investment. If the fund merges, Bank SinoPac will still maintain the original debiting of Dollar Cost / Value Averaging Investment and will debit the surviving fund after the merger. If there are any changes in the subscription fee and product risk level, the surviving fund will prevail. Any possible suspension of trading before and after the merger shall be subject to its

- respective regulations. Trust funds paid in foreign currency will (1) require the Client to re-agree on the debit account and amount if the debited fund's currency differs before and after the merger. If the re-agreement about the debit account is not reached, the original fund's debit account will be debited. If the re-agreement about the debit amount is not reached, the minimum debit amount prescribed by the surviving fund's currency will be used. (2) If the debited funds are in different currencies before and after the merger, the increment or decrement amount and necessary settings for Value Averaging Investment must be re-agreed upon; otherwise, it will be deemed a Dollar-Cost Averaging transaction.
- g. If the Client processes the subscription with a SinoPac credit card, the investment method is limited to Dollar Cost Averaging Investment or Value Averaging Investment in New Taiwan Dollar trusts, and SinoPac Bank may proceed only after completing the card authorization.
 - h. Value Averaging Investment refers to the situation where the net value of the fund and the average subscription net value, compared to the increase/decrease rate, is greater or equal to the Client's set increase/decrease rate, the debit amount will be adjusted according to the Client's agreed increase/decrease amount.
 - i. The calculation for the net value increase/decrease of Value Averaging Investment = $\frac{\text{the latest net value on the day before the debit date} - \text{'average subscription net value'}}{\text{'average subscription net value'}} - 1$ * 100," rounded down to an integer. The average subscription net value is calculated based on Bank SinoPac's system.
 - j. The first debit amount of the Value Averaging Investment is the originally agreed debit amount; subsequent debit amounts = 'the agreed debit amount' of Dollar Cost Average Investment Certificate + 'increment/decrement'. The sum of the 'agreed debit amount' + 'increment/decrement' must be higher than or equal to the fund's minimum investment amount of Dollar Cost / Value Averaging Investment. If it is lower, the minimum investment amount prescribed by the fund will be the debit amount.
 - k. For the debit amount of Dollar Cost / Value Averaging Investment, when the Client's designated principal and/or fee debit account has a loan quota that can be utilized as agreed with SinoPac Bank, the Client may choose whether to use that loan quota in the event of insufficient account balance for debiting. In the case of a single New Taiwan Dollar trust investment with insufficient account balance for debiting, the said loan quota will be utilized..
 - l. If the Client is a non-professional investor, when making Dollar Cost / Value Averaging Investment investments, if re-evaluating investment attributes leads to a change in investment attribute level which does not meet Bank SinoPac's suitability standards, the debit may still continue under the original agreement, but the debit amount and frequency may not be increased. Additionally, if the Client applies to resume the debit and the product level exceeds the Client's investment attribute level from the date of resumption, then this scheduled resumption of the debiting application shall be considered null and void.
- J. Terms and Conditions for Credit Card Subscription:
The Client agrees to apply to Bank SinoPac for the "Non-discretionary Money Trust Investment in Domestic and Foreign Funds" service, and agrees to use the principal card of the Bank SinoPac credit card held by the Client to pay for the subscription of the Dollar Cost Averaging investment (including the trust principal and trust processing fees), and shall comply with the following terms:
- a. The Client agrees to pay for the Non-discretionary Money Trust investment in domestic and foreign funds and its processing fees through the Bank SinoPac's credit card. Following the Client's instructions and completing the authorization review, Bank SinoPac will execute the debit payment procedure on the mutually agreed credit card payment date, thus facilitating the Dollar Cost Averaging Investment subscription procedures.
 - b. The Client agrees that, if the credit card debit operation cannot be performed on the specified date due to computer, telecommunication system failures or other force majeure incidents, the debiting may be postponed to the next business day after the system is repaired or force majeure is removed, and that day will be considered the fund subscription date.
 - c. The Client agrees that credit card subscriptions to domestic or foreign funds shall be limited to Dollar Cost Averaging investments. The total amount of each subscription, including trust sums and processing fees, will not utilize the card's revolving credit and must be fully covered in the minimum payment of that credit card's billing cycle.
 - d. The return of fund redemption proceeds shall only be deposited into the Client's designated deposit account with Bank SinoPac.
 - e. The Client agrees that, if a credit card used for investment has outstanding balances due at the time of fund redemption, and, if these balances remain unpaid after notification by Bank SinoPac, the Client authorizes Bank SinoPac to directly disburse the redemption proceeds to the designated account to settle or offset all credit card debts owed to Bank SinoPac. This agreement may not be revoked by the Client without the consent of Bank SinoPac.
 - f. The Client agrees to execute the credit card debit payment according to this Agreement and agrees that Bank SinoPac may start the aforementioned credit card debit payment for fund subscription/change on the next business day after the application's effective date.
 - g. The Client agrees that this agreement applies to all credit cards held with Bank SinoPac, including any future newly applied credit cards, as well as those reissued due to expiration or loss. If, as a result, the credit card number or expiration date changes, the Client agrees that Bank SinoPac may, within the available limit of the changed credit card number, process the deduction and payment for trust funds and trust fees.
- K. Fund Take-Profit/Stop-Loss Settings:
- a. 'Automatic Redemption at Take-Profit/Stop-Loss Point' service refers to the fund certificates registered in Bank SinoPac's system that, if the calculation indicates the Fund reaches the Client's set take-profit or stop-loss point, will automatically execute redemption transactions on the following or second business day (excluding units in transit), with notification to the Client via text message or other electronic means.
 - b. The Client acknowledges and agrees that the redemption proceeds from the 'Automatic Redemption at Take-Profit/Stop-Loss Point' service will be transferred to the account associated with the fund certificates' dividend payments, and the actual return rate may differ from the set take-profit or stop-loss point.
 - c. The Client acknowledges and agrees that the application for the 'Automatic Redemption at Take-Profit/Stop-Loss Point' service may violate the Fund's short-term trading regulations, and the fund institution reserves the right to reject the Client's transactions or charge short-term trading fees.
 - d. The Client acknowledges and agrees that the 'Automatic Redemption at Take-Profit/Stop-Loss Point' service is not applicable during the Fund's lock-up period, including but not limited to guaranteed or target maturity funds, back-end load funds, etc.
 - e. "Notification of Profit/Stop-Loss Point via Email" service refers to the processes where a fund certificate is recorded in the Bank SinoPac system, which will automatically send relevant messages daily to the Client's designated email address when the return rate reaches the Client's set profit or stop-loss point (business day) or the next business day.

- f. The Client acknowledges and agrees that the “Notification of Profit/Stop-Loss Point via Email” is for notification purposes only. If the Client wishes to redeem or convert the fund, a separate application must be made.
 - g. Bank SinoPac calculates the return rate daily based on the latest net asset value and exchange rate recorded in the computer system. When the return rate is \geq a Take-Profit Point or \leq Stop-Loss Point, Bank SinoPac will redeem the Fund or send email notifications automatically according to the Agreement.
 - h. The Client can choose only either “Automatic Redemption at Profit/Stop-Loss Point” or “Notification of Take-Profit/Stop-Loss Point via Email”. If the Client applies for the “Automatic Redemption at Take-Profit/Stop-Loss Point” service for a fund certificate that already has the “Notification of Profit/Stop-Loss Point via Email” service, Bank SinoPac will immediately terminate the email notification service, and vice versa.
 - i. The Client acknowledges and agrees that, if a fund certificate that has applied for “Automatic Redemption at Take-Profit/Stop-Loss Point” or “Notification of Profit/Stop-Loss Point via Email” service encounters a fund merger or conversion, the previously applied services will be transferred to the surviving or converted fund.
- L. Instant Message Service Notification:
- a. 'Instant Message Service Notification' refers to the right of Bank SinoPac to notify the Client through a text message to the mobile number retained by the Client in Bank SinoPac. The content of the notification includes but are not limited to information on 'Single Purchased Unit Credited to the Account' and 'Single/Dollar Cost Averaging Investment Redemption Proceeds Credited to the Account.'
 - b. The subjects of this Service are as per Bank SinoPac's regulations, and the content of the information is for notification purposes only. The actual reconciliation shall be based on the records within Bank SinoPac's system.
3. The Efficient Investment Method
- A. Definitions:
- a. 'The Efficient Investment Method' combines stocks and bonds allocation along with Dollar Cost/ Value Averaging Investment, enabling the Client to designate two categories of investment targets according to their investment needs. One category is the original fund, and the other is the target fund, deployed in installments as an investment method. The Client first chooses the initial fund with lower volatility or (and) broader investment scope as the core assets; then selects the target funds with relatively higher volatility but long-term growth potential as satellite assets. Bank SinoPac will, according to the Client's specified dates and conversion ratios, switch the original funds in installments to the target funds. The Client can set profit-taking or stop-loss points for the Portfolio or target funds, and, when these points are reached, the system will automatically switch all the target fund's stock units to the original fund or redeem all the stock units of the original and target funds to a specified account.
 - b. 'Original Fund' refers to the fund purchased by Bank SinoPac as per the Client's instruction.
 - c. 'Target Fund' refers to the fund switched for subscription by Bank SinoPac as per the Client's instruction.
- B. Acceptance Time:
- Bank SinoPac accepts OTC transactions for domestic and international funds using the Efficient Investment Method from Monday to Friday, 9:00 AM to 3:30 PM. However, the transaction hours for domestic money market funds, Prudential Financial Return Fund, and other particular types of funds (as specified in the prospectus or by the fund institution) are from 9:00 AM to 10:30 AM.
- C. Investment Risk Disclosure and Precaution:
- a. “Trust Funds” refers to funds entrusted by the Client to Bank SinoPac for investment in domestic and foreign targets following specific instructions, distinct from the Client's Time Deposits and not protected by deposit insurance laws, insurance stability funds, or other security mechanisms.
 - b. Investment funds shall not be construed as Time Deposits. Bank SinoPac, fulfilling its obligations as a prudent manager, expressly disclaims any guarantees regarding the profit or loss of this trust fund and any minimum returns. The Client shall acknowledge the risks potentially associated with the investment targets and regions, inclusive of, but not limited to, the risk of over-concentration in specific stocks, industrial economic cycle risk, liquidity risk, market risk (including variations in political and economic conditions within the investment region, controls and fluctuations in foreign exchange, societal changes, prevailing interest rates, share prices, indices or fluctuations in the prices of other target assets), credit risk, risks inherent to structured investment products, transactions in securities-related products, and risks associated with specific investment targets or strategies. In consideration of the aforementioned risks, which may lead to a delay in the disbursement of redemption monies due to large-scale redemptions by the Client or suspension in the calculation of the redemption price, the Client shall not, under any circumstances, seek to hold Bank SinoPac liable or request it to share any resultant losses.
 - c. Some fund institutions have established fair pricing adjustment mechanisms or anti-dilution mechanisms to protect the rights and interests of the Client. When high volatility or low liquidity events occur in the market, or when the fund manager needs to trade securities in response to significant client subscriptions or redemptions; to protect the interests of the holders of that fund, the fund institution will activate the fair pricing adjustment mechanism or anti-dilution mechanism to adjust the net asset value of the fund. The adjustment range may vary according to the rules of each fund institution.
 - d. Non-Investment Grade Bond Funds (these funds primarily invest in high-risk bonds in Non-Investment Grade, and the interest payout may derive from principal) are approved by the Financial Supervisory Commission (hereinafter referred to as the 'FSC'), but such approval does not signify an absence of risk. Since the credit ratings of non-investment grade bonds may fall below investment grade or may not be credit-rated, and are highly sensitive to interest rate changes, the funds may suffer losses due to rising interest rates, declining market liquidity, or defaults by the bond-issuing institutions in payment of principal or interest, or bankruptcy. Investors should assess these factors prudently. Non-Investment Grade Bond Funds are not suitable for the Client who cannot bear related risks and is more suitable for the Client with investment attributes above the conservative level. Funds that focus on non-investment grade bonds should not constitute an excessively high proportion of their Portfolio. Non-Investment Grade Bond Funds may invest in U.S. 144A bonds, which are privately placed in nature and may expose the funds to risks of insufficient liquidity, incomplete financial information disclosure, or price opacity leading to high volatility.
 - e. The distribution of dividends from the fund may emanate from either the fund's income or principal. Any disbursement involving the principal could consequently result in a diminution of the original investment capital. Furthermore, such distribution may be effectuated without prior deduction of associated expenses, for which the fund is duly liable.
 - f. Investing in emerging markets may entail higher price fluctuations and lower liquidity risks than investing in developed countries. The Client should stay cautious in selecting investment targets.
 - g. Funds invested in China are not wholly invested in securities in mainland China and shall comply with the relevant laws of the Republic of China: (1) The ratio of securities in mainland China's securities market to the total investment of foreign funds must not exceed the ratio set by the Financial Supervisory Commission; (2) Although domestic investment trust funds investing in mainland China may include stocks, depositary receipts, or bonds with specific credit ratings traded on the centralized trading market, and there is no legal limit on the total amount of investment, they must still comply with Trust Agreements, fund prospectuses, and other related regulations, and must also be subject to the Qualified Foreign Institutional Investor (QFII) quota restrictions of the fund institution. Investors should also be aware of potential investment risks arising from market policies, laws and regulations, accounting and tax systems of Chinese government, and the economic and related market changes during subscription.

- h. Prior to subscription, the Client shall diligently review the Trust Agreements, risk disclosures, fund prospectuses, and investor guidelines; and comprehend potential risks, including the maximum possible loss of all principal and potential dividends. Performance may vary due to different investment timings, and past performance does not guarantee future results. Although approved or accepted by the Financial Supervisory Commission, the fund is not risk-free. The fund manager's past performance does not guarantee the fund's minimum investment return, and aside from the duty of a prudent manager, the fund manager is not responsible for the fund's profits or losses. For funds entrusted for investment by Bank SinoPac, the prospectuses or investor guidelines are readily available. The Client may obtain them at Bank SinoPac branches or download them from the fund institution's website or the fund information observation station (<http://www.fundclear.com.tw>).
 - i. The total return rate of the fund includes both the net value return rate and the dividend yield. The dividend yield of the fund is not synonymous with the fund's return rate, and past dividend yields do not represent future yields. In addition to potential fluctuations due to market factors, the net asset value of the fund may also vary due to dividend policies.
 - j. This risk disclosure and notice only list essential parts and cannot detail all investment risks and market-influencing factors for all funds. Before investing, the Client must thoroughly study this risk disclosure and notice, make proper financial planning and risk assessment, and carefully review the public prospectuses and investor notices of the funds entrusted to Bank SinoPac, to avoid suffering losses that are difficult to bear.
- D. The Remuneration, Types, and Calculation of the Trust:
- a. The Client understands and agrees that, when conducting transactions related to a Non-discretionary Money Trust, within the scope permitted by law, Bank SinoPac may obtain various benefits such as remuneration, fees, discounts etc. from the transaction counterpart and/or the fund institution as trust remuneration. The standards for charges and related regulations are as follows:
 - (1) Subscription Fee Rate: Not exceeding 3%. Besides observing the prospectus regulations, this fee standard also includes the relevant operating costs of this product. The fee is calculated by multiplying the trust principal by the rate, paid in a lump sum by the Client to Bank SinoPac at the time of subscription.
 - (2) The Channel Service Fee at Subscription: the rate, ranging from 0% to 1.0%, is calculated by multiplying the trust principal by the rate; if the rate is not calculated with trust principal, a fixed amount of TW$ 0 to 200 is charged and paid to Bank SinoPac by transaction counterparts and/or fund institutions. The payment method varies across fund institutions and may be paid monthly, quarterly, semi-annually, or annually; if this Service fee is included in the expense specified in the prospectus, such fee will be deducted directly from the daily net asset value of each fund by the fund institution.
 - (3) Switching Subscription Fees: In accordance with the regulations of the fund institution, the fee shall be deducted from the actual switched amount by the said fund institution.
 - (4) Channel Service Fee at Conversion: The rate, ranging from 0% to 0.5%, is calculated by multiplying the net asset value of the redeemed fund provided by transaction counterparts and/or fund institutions by the rate at the time of conversion. This Service fee is included in the conversion fee charged by the fund institution and is paid to Bank SinoPac, with payment methods varying by fund institution and possibly paid monthly, quarterly, semi-annually, or annually. Additionally, Bank SinoPac may charge an extra one-time conversion fee when the Client carries out the conversion transaction. The fee per transaction is NT$ 50 for domestic funds and NT$ 500 for offshore funds.
 - (5) Channel Service Fee During Holding Period: the annual rate, ranging from 0% to 1.0%, is calculated by multiplying the net asset value held by Bank SinoPac with transaction counterparts and/or fund institutions by the annual rate. Payment methods vary across fund institutions and may be paid monthly, quarterly, semi-annually, or annually. This Service fee is included in the expense specified in the prospectus and is directly deducted from the daily net asset value of each fund by the fund institution.
 - (6) Trust Management Fees: the annual rate is 0.2%. The fee is calculated separately for each trust principal based on the actual holding period, multiplied by the annual rate. Such fee is paid by the Client to Bank SinoPac and deducted from the trust principal and interest when the Client requests redemption. Notwithstanding, if the fees calculated through the aforementioned method do not reach Bank SinoPac's specified minimum fee standard, the deduction will be made at the minimum fee standard. DBU's minimum fee standard: (1) Domestic Funds priced in New Taiwan Dollar: NTD 100. (2) Offshore Funds and Foreign Currency-Priced Domestic Funds for single subscription: Vary depending on the trust principal currency, including New Taiwan Dollar Trust: NTD 500, Foreign Currency Trust: USD 15, EUR 15, GBP 11, JPY 2,000, HKD 120, AUD 15, CAD 20, CHF 15, SGD 25, ZAR 125, CNY 100, and NZD 20.
 - b. The Client shall bear all taxes and expenses related to fund investment, and Bank SinoPac may deduct them directly from the account designated by the Client.
 - c. Changes in the disclosure content of the fund distribution remuneration by the sales agency can be found in the fund information section of eMMA Banking (<https://mma.sinopac.com>).
 - d. All administrative, management, investment, trading, conversion, redemption, and other expenses are usually directly deducted from the net asset value of the investment target or (and) implied in the spread between the buying and selling quotes and the net asset value of the investment target. The Client has fully understood this procedure.
- E. Subscription Transactions
- a. Stipulations on the Undertaking Amount:
 - (1) The initial trust principal of the original fund must not fall under NTD 300,000/USD 12,000/EUR 12,000/JPY 1,200,000/GBP 7,000/HKD 72,000/AUD 18,000/CAD 15,000/CHF 18,000/SGD 18,000/ZAR 90,000/CNY 65,000/NZD 13,000 (the currency of the foreign trust will be determined by the individual investment target).

- (2) When switching the initial trust principal of the original fund to the target fund, each fund must not fall under NTD 3,000/USD 120/EUR 120/JPY 12,000/GBP 70/HKD 720/AUD 180/CAD 150/CHF 180/SGD 180/ZAR 900/CNY 650/NZD 130 (depending on the principal's currency of the original trust). Otherwise, Bank SinoPac may refuse to process it.
- b. Agreements on Transaction Procedures:
- (1) The target fund is limited to the same series as the original fund; if the investment is made through a foreign trust, the target fund must be in the same currency as the original fund.
 - (2) Execution of the switch from the original fund to the target fund (The system automatically execute the switch after the agreement is reached with the Client):
 - i. If the switching subscription date falls on a non-business day, the procedure will automatically be postponed to the next business day; if there are two or more switching subscription dates during continuous holidays, the system will automatically be postponed to the next business day, and only one transaction will be carried out.
 - ii. Effective Date of Switching subscription: The application completed 5 business days before the switching subscription date will be effective during that month; if not, it will be effective during the following month. The first switching subscription will only be effective after Bank SinoPac has allocated the number of original fund subscription units.
 - iii. Calculation of the Actual Switching subscription Amount:
 Each switching subscription amount = [Number of Units Switched] × [Net Value of Original Fund] × [Exchange Rate] - [Switching Subscription Fee Deducted by the Fund institution]. The term [Number of Units Switched] refers to (the amount of the principal which the Client agrees for the switching subscription trust/accumulated principal of the original fund at the time of switching subscription) × accumulated units of the original fund at the time of switching subscription; and the [Exchange Rate] applies only when the pricing currencies of the original and target funds are different. (Note: The accumulated principal and unit number do not include the unreported increased portion). Meanwhile, the principal amount of the switching subscription trust is agreed upon by the Client and converted into the number of units switched out each time by the system based on the agreed amount. The actual amount of the switching subscription differs from the principal amount of the switching subscription trust due to fluctuations in the net asset value or exchange rate.
 - iv. Each time a switching subscription is made, the order of the target funds will be determined randomly. The amount of the target funds will be deducted from the original trust principal in installments, and, if the trust principal is insufficient for switching to the minimum amount of the target fund, for the efficiency of the investment method, the Client agrees that Bank SinoPac will include this deficit in the amount of the previous switching subscription.
 - v. If the original fund has units not yet reported in transit (such as transactions in transit, additional amounts in transit), then the switching subscription to the target fund will not be executed.
 - vi. The actual subscription date for the switching subscription is determined by the transaction day of each fund institution.
 - vii. The minimum amount for the switching subscription is not subject to the restrictions set forth in the prospectuses of each fund.
- c. Take-Profit Protocols and Related Transaction Rules
- (1) Take-Profit for the Portfolio.
 - i. Profits and total return rates are calculated collectively for the whole portfolio (original fund + all target funds). The total return rate is calculated in NTD for NTD trusts and in the currency of the original fund for foreign currency trusts. Either a take-profit or stop-loss point must be set as a positive integer not equal to 0.
 - ii. If the portfolio has unreported units, the total return rate will not be calculated, and the take-profit or stop-loss point will not be automatically executed, either
 - (2) Take-Profit for the Individual Target Fund.
 - i. The profit is calculated in NTD for NTD trusts and in the currency of the individual target fund for foreign currency trusts. Each target fund must have at least one take-profit or stop-loss point set as a positive integer not equal to 0.
 - ii. If an individual target fund has unreported units in transit, the return rate will not be calculated, nor will the take-profit or stop-loss point be automatically executed.
 - (3) The Calculation Basis for Total Return Rate of the Portfolio and/or the Rate of Return for Individual Target Fund
 - i. The calculation of the return rate is based on the latest net value and exchange rate of the original and target funds as recorded daily in the SinoPac Bank computer system. This data serves as the basis for SinoPac Bank's redemption and/or automatic termination agreements and does not represent the actual return rate at the time of client redemption.
 - ii. The return rate is calculated as (investment target's current value – the trust fund of the investment target)/ the trust fund of the investment target, excluding all fees and unreported units of the original and target funds in transit.
 - iii. The date of the return rate serves as the execution basis for SinoPac Bank in "The Amount Adjustment Settings for Value Averaging Investment," "Take-profit/Stop-Loss Point Redemption and Switch Subscription Agreements," and "Redemption/Or Automatic Termination Agreements."
- d. The Client understands and agrees that, during the investment period, due to reasons unattributable to Bank SinoPac (including but not limited to situations where the original/targeted fund encounters liquidation, merger, suspension of subscription, redemption, or restrictions on switching in/out), the agreed-upon switching subscription/redemption transaction cannot be executed, or even affects the stop-loss/take-profit and related termination agreements, Bank SinoPac may, at the latest, actively terminate the Client's efficient investment method on the last trading day after receiving the corresponding notification from the fund institution. The original/target funds of that portfolio will switch to a single certificate after the termination of the investment method. The Client who wishes to redeem the remaining fund positions, should fill out a "Fund Redemption (Switch) (Redemption and Re-subscription) Application Form".
- F. Switching and Changing Transactions
- a. Agreements upon the switching of original/targeted funds:
 - (1) The original or targeted fund must have no unreported units in transit (such as subscription in transit, or addition in transit), and partial switches are not allowed. Only total conversions to another fund within the same series are allowed.
 - (2) For original or targeted funds of foreign-currency trusts, only the application for switching to other funds within the same series in the same pricing currency is allowed.
 - (3) If the inventory units of the original or targeted fund to be switched are zero (i.e., there is no trust principal), then the application to switch transactions is not allowed.
 - b. Agreements on setting the addition and switching subscription of the targeted fund:
 - (1) The change is completed one business day before the switching subscription date turns effective within the month.

- (2) The targeted fund must be in the same series as the original fund; if the investment is in a foreign currency trust, the targeted fund must be in the same currency as the original fund.
- (3) Settings related to Value Averaging Investment:
 - i. The setting of "increment/decrement %" must be a positive integer, and the "increment/decrement amount" should take "NT$ 1" as the minimum progressive unit.
 - ii. The calculation of net value increment/decrement% = the targeted fund's " (latest net value in the system the day before the switching subscription date / average subscription net value ' -1) * 100," rounded down to the nearest integer. The average subscription net value is calculated according to the Bank SinoPac's system.
 - iii. The first switching subscription amount is the agreed switching subscription amount; the subsequent switching subscription amount of Value Averaging Investment = "Agreed switching subscription amount" + "increment/decrement". The amount after the "increment/decrement" should not be lower than the minimum monthly switching subscription amount of the targeted fund in the efficient investment method. If it is lower than the minimum switching subscription amount, the switching subscription will be conducted according to the minimum switching subscription amount stipulated by the fund.
- c. The Client agrees that, if they want to change the take-profit/stop-loss of the investment method, add or change the related switching subscription settings of the targeted fund (setting of Value Averaging Investment), or terminate the agreement related to this application form, they should fill out an "Application Form for Changes/Termination of the Efficient Investment Method under a Non-discretionary Money Trust of Bank SinoPac".

G. Additional Investment/Partial Redemption Transactions

a. "Additional Investment" in the Original Fund

(1) The Stipulations on Underwriting Amounts

The additional investment in the trust principal must not be less than NTD 100,000 / USD 4,000 / EUR 4,000 / JPY 400,000 / GBP 2,400 / HKD 24,000 / AUD 6,000 / CAD 5,000 / CHF 6,000 / SGD 6,000 / ZAR 30,000 / CNY 22,000 / NZD 4,400 (the currency of foreign currency trusts shall be based on the individual investment target).

(2) Agreements on Transaction Operation

- i. Additional investments shall be made exclusively in the original trust currency; investments in NTD trusts shall be increased solely in NTD, and investments in USD trusts shall be increased solely in USD (the same rule applies to other currencies).
- ii. After completing the additional investment, the switch subscription of the target fund shall continue according to the agreed amount and date for the original trust.
- iii. If the original fund executes a switch transaction, additional investments can only be made on the next business day after the completion of the switch transaction.
- iv. When the original fund is increased, if there are units in transit not yet reported, the return rate shall not be calculated, nor shall the take-profit or stop-loss point shall be automatically executed.

b. "Partial Redemption" of the Original Fund

(1) The Stipulations on Underwriting Amounts

The redemption amount must be \leq the accumulated amount of the original fund, and the remaining amount of the efficient portfolio after redemption [excluding the amount of additional investments in transit] must not be less than NTD 100,000 / USD 4,000 / EUR 4,000 / JPY 400,000 / GBP 2,400 / HKD 24,000 / AUD 6,000 / CAD 5,000 / CHF 6,000 / SGD 6,000 / ZAR 30,000 / CNY 22,000 / NZD 4,400. Otherwise, Bank SinoPac may refuse to execute the procedure.

(2) Agreements on Transaction Operation

- i. The original fund may be partially redeemed for units already reported, but only one partial redemption transaction is allowed per certificate on the same day.
- ii. The execution of partial redemption does not affect the agreement of the original fund to switch the subscription to the target fund, and the efficient investment method will not be terminated automatically.
- iii. The Client agrees that Bank SinoPac will disburse the proceeds from redemption to a designated account. Notwithstanding, if the Client has not specified a return account, the return account registered by the Client in Bank SinoPac's system at the time of return shall prevail, and the Client must guarantee that the designated redemption return account is the deposit account under the Client's name.

c. The Client agrees that, if they wish to make additional investments or partially redeem the original fund, they should fill out the "Application Form for Additional Investment/Partial Redemption in Efficient Investment Method through Bank SinoPac Non-discretionary Money Trust".

H. Automatic Termination of "Efficient Investment Method"

- a.  - f. "Coupon Rate" refers to the interest rate paid periodically by the issuer during the circulation of the bonds.
 - g. "Interest Payment Amount" refers to the fixed interest paid regularly by the issuer during the circulation of the bonds, based on the coupon rate and interest calculation basis.
 - h. "Interest Payment Date" denotes the date on which the bonds pay interest monthly, quarterly, semi-annually, or annually.
 - i. "Basis for Interest Calculation Days" refers to the method used to calculate the interest payment days for the bonds. The Client shall follow the calculation basis for interest days directed by each bond's Product Prospectus and Risk Disclosure Document.
 - j. "Issuance Date" refers to the official date of the issuance of the bonds.

C. Product Investment Risk Disclosure and Notice:

Depending on the investment targets and the respective transaction markets, the Client should understand the characteristics and associated risks of the markets. A summary of the possible investment risks is as follows:

- a. Minimum Return Risk: This product does not have a linked underlying asset; therefore, the minimum return risk is contingent on the credit risk of the issuing institution/guaranteeing institution. In the occurrence of credit default risk, in the worst-case scenario, the Client could lose all invested principal and possible interest payments.
- b. Early Redemption Risk: If redeemed early, the bond must be redeemed at the actual prevailing transaction price, possibly leading to a loss of principal. Hence, if the market price sinks and the Client chooses to redeem early, the Client will incur a loss.
- c. Interest Rate Risk: After issuance, the bond's market price (Marked to Market Value) will be affected by interest rates. When rates rise, the bond's market price will descend, potentially leading to capital loss.
- d. Credit Spread Risk: The credit spread refers to the difference between the interest rates on credit-sensitive bonds (such as corporate bonds) and government bonds, compensating for losses incurred from defaults and the risk premium demanded by risk-averse investors. Typically, the credit spread widens during economic downturns and narrows during economic prosperity. Credit Spread Risk, also known as Spread Widening Risk, pertains to the risk arising from variations in the credit spread due to changes in credit quality.
- e. Liquidity Risk: (1) Bonds may be redeemable from the issue date or after a lock-up period, but execution is not guaranteed; The Client must submit redemption applications from 10:00 AM to 3:30 PM on the open redemption date. (2) The bonds do not exhibit sufficient characteristics of a liquid market. In situations of limited liquidity or low trading volume, the actual trading price per unit of bonds may exhibit a significant spread compared to the reference quote. Therefore, if Clients redeem the bonds early, they may suffer a loss of principal, meaning there is no guarantee of 100% repayment of the trust principal; or even in instances when the market completely loses liquidity or the issuing institution restricts early redemption, the Client will be obliged to hold the bonds until the scheduled maturity date.
- f. Credit Risk: The Client must bear the credit risk of the bond issuer/guaranteeing institution; the assessment of "credit risk" depends on the Client's evaluation of the credit rating value of the bond issuer/guaranteeing institution; that is, the principal and interest guarantee is committed by the issuer/guaranteeing institution and is not a commitment or guarantee by Bank SinoPac.
- g. Exchange Rate Risk: If the bond is a foreign-currency-denominated investment product, the Client must bear the exchange rate risk which may arise from possible currency exchange during bond subscription, bond interest distribution, bond redemption at maturity, issuer's early redemption, or client's early redemption. Bank SinoPac does not speculate on future exchange rate trends.
- h. Event Risk: A significant event occurring to the issuer/guaranteeing institution, may lead to bond downgrades.
- i. Country Risk: Events of force majeure, such as wars, in the country of registration of the bond issuer/guaranteeing institution, may lead to losses for the Client.
- j. Settlement Risk: In the country of registration of the bond issuer/guaranteeing institution or the place where the bond settlement clearing institution is located, temporary non-delivery or delayed delivery may occur due to emergencies, market fluctuations, or public holidays.
- k. Potential Conflicts of Interest: The Client should be aware that the issuer may play different roles in this bond transaction, leading to conflicts of interest. The issuer and its affiliates may also serve as the bond's underwriter, trader, or broker; simultaneously, its affiliates may act as the issuer's hedge counterpart. Thus, the Client should seek independent professional advice to assess the risks associated with potential conflicts of interest.

- l. Inflation Risk: Inflation will cause a decrease in the real return on the bonds.
- m. Reinvestment Risk: If the Client applies for early redemption or the issuer exercises its right of early redemption, and reinvests the proceeds from the early redemption, the investment return may be lower than the yield of this product.
- n. Lock-up Period Risk: Risks arising from the Client not being able to redeem during the lock-up period of the product.
- o. Mark-to-market Risk: The market price of bonds may fluctuate due to such factors as:
 - (1) Variables that affect the expected return on future bond interest, such as issuer or guarantor credit risk premium, spot and forward prices, and implied volatility;
 - (2) When market interest rates rise, the market price of bonds generally decreases.
- p. Legal Risk: Investments in bonds require trading in various countries and thus must comply with the local laws and trading market regulations, which may differ from our country's laws, and changes may affect the Client's rights.
- q. Operational Risk: The operational risk refers to the potential direct or indirect losses caused by various factors in the operation of the issuer or guarantor.
- r. Fair Market Value Risk: Refers to the requirements of IAS 39 regarding the recognition of gains and losses on financial instruments, which may cause significant fluctuations in the profit and loss in the current period's income statement.
- s. Taxation Risk: Different jurisdictions treat tax differently. Any procedures on the tax of bond income should comply with local tax regulations where the Client resides. The Client must bear the bond's tax liability under the jurisdiction and government regulations, including (but not limited to) stamp duty or other taxes or charges arising from the bonds. Generally, the issuer does not pay additional amounts to compensate for any taxes deducted by the issuer or paying agent. The Client should seek independent tax advice when subscribing to bonds.
- t. The Issuer Call Risk: In accordance with the stipulations outlined in the English prospectus and other related documents (such as the Issuer's rights to exercise early redemption clauses, changes in regulations, accounting or tax systems, impact of significant events, delisting, non-compliance of relevant hedging transactions with regulatory provisions, liquidation of the Issuer, etc.), the Issuer may at any time exercise their right to redeem, implementing redemption of part or all of the outstanding amount. The early exercise of bond redemption rights by the Issuer can truncate the expected investment term and may lead to potential losses of the trust principal or a reduction in expected returns.
- u. The Subordinated Debt Risk: When the issuer defaults, the claim priority of subordinated bonds is after secured and senior bonds, so, before the holders of secured and senior bonds are compensated, the holders of subordinated bonds may not be repaid.
- v. Internal Financial Adjustment (Bail-in): In the event that the issuer/guarantor of the bond undergoes a significant internal financial adjustment, such as being on the verge of a major operational/bankruptcy crisis, it may, through contractual arrangements or statutory mechanisms, write down the face value of the bonds or convert them into equity, possibly leading to a partial or complete reduction of the Client's claims, cancellation of interest, conversion of claims into equity or other securities, modification of bond conditions such as maturity date, coupon rate, interest payment date, or suspension of dividends, etc. In the worst-case scenario, the Client may lose all invested principal and potential dividends.
- w. Total Loss-Absorbing Capacity (TLAC): Some bond issuers are among the globally significant systemic banks, and their issued bonds are TLAC debt instruments. In the event of a significant operational/bankruptcy crisis, the issuer may write down the face value of the bonds or convert them into equity, possibly leading to a partial or complete reduction of the Client's claims, cancellation of interest, conversion of claims into equity, modification of bond conditions such as maturity date, coupon rate, interest payment date, or suspension of dividends, etc. In the worst-case scenario, the Client may lose all invested principal and potential dividends.
- x. Neither Bank SinoPac nor the issuer of this product or their respective affiliates has authorized anyone to provide any information other than or in conflict with this product prospectus.
- y. Investment in foreign securities through a Non-discretionary Money Trust carries risks, and the Trustee shall bear all profits and losses. Funds of the Non-discretionary Money Trust are not Time Deposits with Bank SinoPac and thus not within the deposit coverage of the Central Deposit Insurance Corporation. Bank SinoPac does not legally guarantee the trust principal's safety, nor guarantee a minimum return.
- z. In respect of investment risk disclosure and precaution, as it is not possible to encompass all investment risks and factors that may affect market trends, the Client should obtain the product prospectus and all other related documents before subscription, and thoroughly understand the related investment risks and other factors which may affect investment returns, to accurately assess risks and avoid trading-generated losses that cannot be borne. If necessary, the Client should also consult legal, accounting, tax, and other relevant professionals to assist in investment judgment before subscription.
- aa. The Client shall decide whether the investment in bonds is appropriate at their sole discretion. The Client's investment behavior is entirely based on its independent judgment and not on any verbal or written opinions provided by Bank SinoPac and the issuer, its agents, or related entities of this product.
- bb. The Client is advised not to invest in this product by credit expansion.
- cc. The Client should carefully consider their finance before subscription and aim to hold the investment until maturity, if possible.

The Client understands and agrees that, when Bank SinoPac carries out transactions related to the Non-discretionary Money Trust, any costs which may be incurred from the counterparty are to be taken as the trust remuneration of Bank SinoPac, and the fee standards and related provisions are as follows:

The transaction application can be canceled only when the trusted transactions have not been executed. To do so, the Client shall submit the completed application form within the trading business hours of Bank SinoPac on the same day.
 - b. Except for bonds from Initial Public Offerings (IPOs), which can be traded under the "Good Till Cancelled" (GTC) format, all other transactions are of the "Day Order" (DAY) type. The transaction prices are set as "Limit Orders", authorizing Bank SinoPac to transact based on the market price. Bond transaction orders are either fully executed or not executed at all (All or None - AON orders).
 - c. Limit Order: Clients entrust Bank SinoPac to execute orders at a specified limit price. Bank SinoPac commits to utilizing its utmost diligence to conduct these orders in compliance with the regulations and conventional practices of the various securities markets, faithfully abiding by the trust's primary objective. Nevertheless, due to factors such as market price volatility, Bank SinoPac cannot ensure the guaranteed execution of the client's order request.
 - d. Clients acknowledge that the reference prices for bond orders provided by Bank SinoPac originate from securities brokers with whom Bank SinoPac collaborates. Should clients have specific requirements, they may directly adjust these prices upon submitting their bond orders to Bank SinoPac (only for over-the-counter orders and bond- matching orders). Clients agree and comprehend that such price adjustment may impact the probability of successful execution of the orders.
 - e. At bond maturity, Bank SinoPac will proactively redeem bonds. Under normal circumstances, where no events such as delivery deferrals occur, Bank SinoPac, after deducting trust management fees, will remit proceeds from matured bonds or redeemed funds before the maturity date into the Client's designated account at least five business days in advance. The Client may initiate a redemption every business day before 3:30 p.m. prior to the bond's maturity date. Bank SinoPac does not charge any redemption fees. However, the redeemed value and minimum returns are not guaranteed and depend on the prevailing market prices.
 - f. The Client declares that they are not a resident (non-resident) of the bond issuing jurisdiction or have established a registered company therein. Due to foreign legal provisions, investors possessing residency in the bond-issuing jurisdiction may not open trust accounts. The Client obtaining such residency after establishing a trust account must proactively notify Bank SinoPac in writing and provide necessary documentation or proof as required by Bank SinoPac. Under the aforementioned circumstances, the trust relationship shall be terminated. If the Client breaches any relevant legal obligations and Bank SinoPac incurs any damages as a result (including but not limited to penalties imposed by regulatory authorities), the Client agrees to bear the liability for damages [including but not limited to any expenses (inclusive of litigation costs), losses, fines, and similar fees].
 - g. Bank SinoPac and its entrusted brokers will carry out relevant transactions for the Client in accordance with the norms and conventions of domestic and foreign securities trading markets to fulfill the purpose of the trust. Nonetheless, due to price fluctuations and other factors, the execution of the Client's transaction application is not guaranteed.
- F. Subscription Transactions
- a. Minimum Subscribed Amount: As specified in each product's prospectus and risk notice.
 - b. Subscription Procedures:
 - (1) During the valid period of the Trust Agreement, the Client shall fill in the "Bond Investment (Cancellation) Application Form" for bond investment, and immediately transfer the purchase amount (including trust principal, bond interest accrued, trust processing fees, and various taxes) into the designated account with Bank SinoPac; otherwise, the application shall not take effect. The Client agrees not to utilize the funds in the designated debit account before confirmation of this application for investment and the deduction of related amounts.
 - (2) Other Special Agreement on Trading
 - i. Excess Earmarking: The Client authorizes and agrees to Bank SinoPac's earmarking of an amount calculated as $(\text{Order Limit Price} \times \text{Purchase Transaction Amount} + \text{Prepaid Bond Interest} + \text{Trust Fees} + \text{Estimated Taxes}) \times \text{Earmark Exchange Rate}$ from their deposit account with Bank SinoPac. If the Client's investment is denominated in foreign currency, the Earmark Exchange Rate is set to 1. The Client acknowledges that they cannot utilize the earmarked funds and agrees that Bank SinoPac can directly debit from the mentioned deposit account on the transaction date or the subsequent business day.

The Client agrees that after partial bond redemption, Bank SinoPac shall record the remaining trust property information in the Client's trust account, and send the transaction statement to the Client without issuing physical trust certificates.
- H. Cancellation of Transactions: The application to cancel the transaction is only limited to unexecuted instructions within the effective period and must be submitted within the trading hours of Bank SinoPac. Notwithstanding, the actual amount of canceled bond transactions depends on market conditions; therefore, the application for cancellation does not guarantee that the transaction (or all of it) will be confirmed as revoked. If any part or all of the transaction is confirmed and cannot be canceled, Bank SinoPac may execute subsequent delivery and remittance, and the transaction remains valid for the Client. Bank SinoPac reserves the right to accept or reject the Client's cancellation instruction.

The Client instructs Bank SinoPac to appoint SinoPac Securities (Asia) Limited, SinoPac Securities Corporation, KGI Securities Asia Limited, or authorize Bank SinoPac to select other securities firms as the sub-trustee for trading, and to enter into contracts and/or open accounts with the securities firm and its custody institution. If the transactions are made through SinoPac Securities (Asia) Limited or SinoPac Securities Corporation, it is considered a transaction involving a party with a vested interest in the trust business. The Client is aware that Bank SinoPac may have a conflict of interest arising from the role it plays in such transactions.

C. Investment Risk Disclosure and Precaution

The Client should be aware that investment in stocks is neither a Time Deposit nor a guaranteed financial product free from loss of principal, and does not belong to the claims managed by the Central Deposit Insurance Corporation; the Client must assume the risks themselves. The risk disclosure and notice below only enumerate significant parts and cannot detail every investment risk and factor affecting the market. It is advised that the Client, before trading, should fully understand related investment risks and other possible factors affecting returns, evaluate their own financial condition and risk tolerance, so as to avoid unsustainable losses from the transactions.

- a. Market Risk: Due to economic changes or other events affecting the market, the price of stocks may rise or fall, thereby affecting investment profits and losses.

- h. Early Closing and Trading Suspension Risk: Foreign exchanges or markets may have established unique mechanisms for early closing or announcing trading suspension, limiting the ability to buy or sell specific securities, and the actual transaction price may lead to trading losses.
- i. Rejection of Transaction Risk: The risk arises when an order is rejected by a foreign exchange or broker due to price or quantity surpassing their trading limits. This may result in the order being rejected before or during the opening hours of the foreign exchange, preventing the transaction.

- j. Other Risks: In addition to the aforementioned primary risks, investments in this product may face various risks stemming from political, economic, national, market, war, counterparty factors, and other uncontrollable or unforeseeable events not attributable to Bank SinoPac. E. Notice on Undertaking:

- a. The Client's instructed transactions are either Day Orders (based on the business hours of the foreign exchange) or Good-Till-Cancelled (GTC) orders and may be partially filled or completed in batches.
- b. All transactions are executed as a "Limit Price" transaction, meaning the Client specifies a purchase or sale price. Bank SinoPac is authorized to execute at this specified price or a better one, depending on market conditions. Regardless of whether the Client's specified limit price is equal to the opening price, closing price, or the day's lowest price, the execution, and the actual transaction price depend on the matching results of the foreign exchange. In relation to the entrusted matters, Bank SinoPac diligently upholds its fiduciary duty; however, it does not assume any responsibility or guarantee regarding the completion of the transaction or the executed price.

- g. Given that the investment target is traded abroad, the execution and confirmation of transactions need to align with the operating hours of the foreign exchange. Due to time zone differences, the finalized transaction price for the investment target can only be determined after Bank SinoPac receives a transaction confirmation notice from the securities broker (or its agent). However, if the confirmation notice from the securities broker (or its agent) received by Bank SinoPac is erroneous, or if there are oversights in Bank SinoPac's operations or other reasons that lead to mistakes, the Client agrees that Bank SinoPac has the right to correct the error and inform the Client. Should an error be discovered by Bank SinoPac after the Client has sold the investment target, and there's an overcharge, Bank SinoPac shall promptly refund the Client. Conversely, if there's a shortage, the Client shall return the deficient amount to Bank SinoPac immediately upon notification.

h. Unless otherwise stipulated by laws or regulations, Bank SinoPac is under no obligation to exercise voting rights or any other ballot rights on behalf of the Client's shares. Bank SinoPac bears no responsibility or obligation concerning proxy forms or documents related to the exercise of voting rights and has no duty to inform the Client regarding such matters.

F. Purchase Transactions:

a. Minimum Purchase Amount/Unit:

- (1) U.S. stocks: equivalent to USD 2,000, with the minimum and incremental purchase unit being one share.
- (2) Hong Kong stocks: equivalent to HKD 15,000, with the minimum and incremental purchase unit being one lot (minimum purchase quantity varies from 100 to 100,000 shares, depending on the investment target).

b. Purchasing Operation:

- (1) During the effective period of the Trust Agreement, the Client is required to complete the 'Bank SinoPac ETF/Stock Investment (Cancellation) Application.' Upon submission, the Client must promptly transfer the total amount, which includes the trust principal, administrative fees, and all applicable taxes, to their designated account at Bank SinoPac. Failure to do so will render the application null and void. Until confirmation of the transaction and associated charges, the Client agrees not to access the funds in the specified account.

(2) Special Conditions on Trading:

- i. Earmarked Reserve: The Client authorizes and agrees that Bank SinoPac will calculate the earmarked amount based on (Order Limit Price × Number of Shares Purchased + Trust Fees + Estimated Taxes) × Earmark Exchange Rate × Earmark Multiplier. The amount will be reserved from the Client's deposit account with Bank SinoPac. If the Client's investment trust is in foreign currency, the Earmark Exchange Rate will be 1. The Client understands that they cannot access the reserved funds and agrees that Bank SinoPac will directly debit from the said deposit account on the trade date or the next business day. During the effective period of a GTC Order, if the order cannot be successfully executed on the day of the transaction, Bank SinoPac may re-process the earmarking on the next trading day in the aforementioned manner.
- ii. Unsettled Release: If a transaction does not successfully execute, the Client agrees that Bank SinoPac may release the earmarked funds in the Client's earmarked deposit account no later than two business days after the intended purchase date.
- iii. Exceeding Earmarked Amount on Purchase: The Client agrees that if the executed transaction amount exceeds the amount earmarked during the purchase, the transaction will still be deemed complete. The Client is obliged to cover the deficit (including related fees) within Bank SinoPac's business hours on the day the transaction is confirmed. Furthermore, the Client consents to Bank SinoPac debiting the requisite amount from their deposit account on the transaction day or the next business day.

G. Selling Transactions:

a. Minimum Selling Units:

- (1) US Stocks: The minimum and incremental selling unit is one share.
- (2) Hong Kong Stocks: The minimum and incremental selling unit is one lot (the minimum selling quantity ranges from 100 to 100,000 shares, varying depending on the investment target).

b. Bank SinoPac will execute stock-selling transactions based on the Client's instructions. Unless the Client specifies otherwise, they agree to Bank SinoPac using a first-in-first-out method to determine the order of selling shares. Upon partial selling of the stock, the Client agrees that Bank SinoPac will record the remaining trust property information in the Client's trust account and will mail a transaction statement to the Client. No physical trust certificates will be issued separately.

c. After purchasing stocks, the Client can only apply to sell them after the transaction has been confirmed and the Bank SinoPac system has completed the allocation of shares.

H. Cancellation and Termination of GTC Orders:

a. Cancellation: Applications to cancel transactions (including daily orders and GTC Orders) are limited to those that have not been executed within the valid period, and must be submitted during the over-the-counter trading hours of Bank SinoPac. Notwithstanding, the actual number of shares successfully canceled will depend on the market conditions, so the application to cancel the transaction does not guarantee the successful cancellation (or the entirety of that transaction). Once the transaction is partially or fully confirmed, rendering cancellation impossible, Bank SinoPac may execute subsequent delivery, remittance, and other related matters, and the transaction remains valid to the Client. Bank SinoPac reserves the right to accept or reject the Client's instructions to cancel the transaction.

b. Termination of GTC Orders: The termination of a GTC Order includes scenarios such as complete execution, partial execution, expiration of the validity period, or failure of earmarking, which are equivalent to the termination of that GTC Order. The actual situation is still subject to the determination of the higher institution.

I. Liability of Bank SinoPac

a. When the Client instructs Bank SinoPac to execute a stock transaction, if the actual transaction date is affected by force majeure factors causing domestic or foreign trading markets to close (e.g., typhoon holidays, etc.), the instruction will be deemed void. The Client shall not claim any rights or demand compensation or joint liability from Bank SinoPac if the transaction cannot be immediately executed due to a market holiday, cessation of trading orders, or circumstances such as holidays or suspension of business in the location of the aforementioned institutions.

b. The Client acknowledges and understands the inherent unreliability and insecurity in electronically transmitting data, with implicit risks of interruption and delay. Should a transaction or other instructions be delayed or fail to complete due to factors not attributable to Bank SinoPac (including but not limited to power outages, disconnections, network transmission interference, telecom congestion, etc.), the Client agrees that Bank SinoPac may suspend services, without objections, and agrees to handle related matters by other means, with the transaction records provided by Bank SinoPac as the standard. Bank SinoPac bears no liability for breach of contract or compensation.

J. The Client understands that Bank SinoPac's Non-discretionary Money Trust service involves trading foreign securities as per the Client's instruction, such as those on the US and Hong Kong stock exchanges. The Client instructs Bank SinoPac to appoint SinoPac Securities Corporation or authorize Bank SinoPac to select another broker to act as the sub-trustee for the purchase and sale transactions and to sign contracts with and/or open accounts with that broker and its custodian institution. If traded through SinoPac Securities Corporation, this is considered a related party transaction, and the Client acknowledges that Bank SinoPac may have conflicts of interest in its role in such transactions.

K. The Client's Understanding of Publicly Traded Stocks The stocks entrusted to the Client for buying or selling are traded on public exchanges.

Information on individual stocks can be obtained from the issuing companies or other public information websites. The Client should proactively seek the stocks and related information of the issuing companies in which they intend to invest or have invested.

L. Notification Service for Reaching Profit/Loss Points via Email:

- a. The "Notification Service for Reaching Profit/Loss Points via Email" refers to the process where, when individual stock targets stored in the system, which, after calculation, reach the Client's set or default profit/loss point (inclusive), Bank SinoPac will only send information regarding reaching the profit/loss point (inclusive) to the Client's designated email address. For selling, a separate application is required, and the actual return on investment may differ from the notified return (potentially lower, higher, or the same). The agreement on profit/loss points is solely for Bank SinoPac's reference in providing trust services, without any obligation to trade or guarantee.
- b. The profit/loss points of individual stock targets are calculated daily based on the closing prices and exchange rates recorded in Bank SinoPac's computer system.
- c. Under the same trust account, if the same investment target is repurchased with the same trust currency or if settings are changed, the original set investment return profit/loss point will be based on the repurchase or subsequent settings.

6. Exchange-Traded Funds (ETF)

A. Definitions:

- a. "ETF" refers to Exchange Traded Funds that comply with the regulations set by the competent authority and are accepted for trading on foreign stock exchanges with the consent of Bank SinoPac. Exchange Traded Funds listed on the US stock exchange are referred to as US stock ETFs; those listed on the Hong Kong stock exchange are referred to as Hong Kong stock ETFs. If they are denominated in Renminbi, they are referred to as Hong Kong stock Renminbi-denominated ETFs.
- b. "Exchange" denotes a trading exchange in compliance with regulatory standards, such as the New York Stock Exchange, NASDAQ Stock Exchange, Hong Kong Stock Exchange, etc.
- c. "Broker" signifies the securities trading firm appointed by Bank SinoPac for placing orders.
- d. "Investment (Cancellation) Application Form" pertains to the application document signed by the Client for transactions, detailing (including but not limited to) the Client's basic information, transaction dates, the type of transactions, names of the targets and product codes, order prices (limit prices), order shares, the commission rate, and the debit/credit account number.
- e. "The Trade Date for Day Orders or Commencement Date for GTC Orders" refers to the day on which the stock, as directed by the Client, is traded on a foreign exchange, or the starting day of such trading.
- f. "The Type of Transactions" indicates whether a particular transaction involves buying, selling, or cancellation.
- g. "The Target Name and Product Code" denotes the name of the ETF and the listing code in the exchange as instructed by the Client for buying, selling, or cancellation.
- h. "The Order Price (Limit Price)" is the price set by the Client for the desired purchase or sale. On foreign exchanges, trades are matched at this specified price or at a better price than specified.
- i. "The Execution Price" designates the actual transaction price, which may be equal to or better than the order price.
- j. "Order Shares" signifies the number of shares the Client wishes to trade, which should be in whole numbers. Nonetheless, the actual traded volume may be equal to or less than the specified order volume.
- k. "Executed Shares" denotes the actual number of shares traded, which may be equal to or less than the order quantity.
- l. "Debit/Credit Account Number" refers to the account number specified by the Client for debiting or crediting for stock transactions. This account should be one of the various types of accounts opened by the Client at Bank SinoPac (including its branches) and should be established separately for different transaction currencies.
- m. "The Execution Date" indicates the day of the transaction's execution as directed by the Client (based on the foreign exchange's trading hours). For executed day orders, the execution date shall be the transaction day. For GTC orders, the execution date is the day the order shares are actually executed.
- n. "The Order Type" signifies whether the Client's transaction instruction is a day order or a GTC order. If the effective period of a Client's transaction instruction is not only on the day of the transaction, it is a GTC order. The maximum period for GTC orders is 30 days (including non-business days), and its effective duration is based on local exchange business days.
- o. "The Expiry Date" refers to the final date on which the Client's Good-Till-Canceled (GTC) order remains valid.

B. Acceptance Time

Acceptance of counter transactions during business hours is as follows:

- a. US stock ETF: Every business day from 11:00 AM to 3:30 PM Taiwan time.
- b. Hong Kong stock ETF: Every business day from 9:30 AM to 3:30 PM Taiwan time.
- c. On Taiwan business days when a foreign securities exchange is closed, the order transaction will be a reservation transaction for the next trading day of the foreign securities exchange.

C. Investment Risk Disclosure and Precaution

The Client should note that an Exchange Traded Fund (ETF) investment is neither a deposit nor a guaranteed financial product free from the risk of principal loss. It does not fall under the claims covered by the Central Deposit Insurance Company. The Client must bear the risk themselves. The following risk disclosure and precaution only outline the significant part and do not detail every investment risk and factor that may affect the market. The Client is advised to read the prospectus carefully before trading and should fully understand the related investment risks and other factors that may affect investment returns. They must assess their financial situation and risk tolerance to avoid suffering from unbearable losses due to transactions.

- a. Market Risk: The net asset value of this product will fluctuate with the prices of the securities it holds, and the market trading price may vary widely without limits on price gains or losses. Investing may result in principal loss, and the maximum possible loss is the total invested principal.
- b. Liquidity Risk: This product may experience incomplete transactions or partial transactions due to insufficient liquidity or other factors. The Client should be aware of the price fluctuation and market risks arising from liquidity concerns.
- c. Exchange Rate Risk: As the product is denominated in foreign currency, the Client who initially invests using a currency different from the product's denominated currency should be aware of potential foreign exchange risks, which include interest accrued in the foreign currency and the possibility of a depreciated return when converting back to the non-denominated currency, which may result in a return lower than the principal invested.
- d. Passive Investment Risk: Most ETFs are not managed actively. Fund managers do not attempt to select individual stocks or take defensive measures in a bear market.

- e. Tracking Error Risk: Owing to associated expenses and variances in the composition between the fund's assets and the benchmark index, the ETFs may exhibit a discernible risk of deviation in their net asset value relative to the performance of the aforementioned index.
 - f. Liquidation Risk: In the event that the net asset value of this product falls below the stipulated minimum on a specific valuation day, or, under other unique circumstances where the Fund Management Company decides that, based on its own judgment, the Company would initiate liquidation, it may divest all relevant assets under the fund's ownership. Upon receiving such information, Bank SinoPac will promptly inform the Client and process related matters as stipulated in the Trust Agreement.
 - g. Emerging Market Risk: Generally, emerging markets bear higher risks than developed countries. These said risks include relatively small capital leading to associated liquidity, price volatility, foreign investment restrictions, government intervention, deficient laws, social, economic, and political uncertainty.
 - h. Concentration Risk: If the ETF invests in a specific industry, commodity, or country, it may not achieve the goal of diversified investment.
 - i. Settlement Risk: If the issuer's registered country or the place where the exchange or security clearing and settlement organization is located faces emergencies, market changes, or holidays that alter settlement regulations, this may lead to temporary inability to settle or delayed settlement.
 - j. Counterparty Risk: Different countries have different regulatory standards for ETF products, leading to variations in investment structures. If the ETF's investment involves derivative products, risks may arise from one party failing to fulfill the mutually agreed returns in the trading contract, affecting the ETF's performance.
 - k. RQFII Risks:
 - (1) The RQFII policies and regulations are newly established, and their implementation carries inherent uncertainties, with the potential for revisions. The ambiguities and fluctuations in Chinese legal statutes (inclusive of RQFII policies and regulations) may adversely affect the ETF, and such changes might possess retroactive properties.
 - (2) There's no assurance that the fund manager will consistently maintain its RQFII status or be able to acquire additional RQFII quotas. The ETF might not always retain a sufficient portion of the RQFII quota to accommodate all subscription applications. This could result in the rejection and suspension of ETF applications, as well as the possibility of the ETF trading at a substantial premium over its net asset value.
 - l. Professional Investor Investing in ETFs: Professional investors can invest not only in leveraged and inverse ETFs but also in ETFs holding spot commodities, futures, options, swap contracts, or other derivative financial instruments. They must be aware of specific risks associated with the particular assets and investment techniques, such as the risk of spot or futures investments and tracking errors, significant price fluctuations between spot and futures investments, risks associated with futures including contango and backwardation, or rollover risks at expiration. Leveraged and inverse ETFs aim to track the daily return performance of their benchmark index. The investment returns can be significantly affected by market volatility and the effects of compounding. Unlike traditional index funds, the cumulative return over an extended period may deviate from the fund's investment objective. These ETFs may not be suitable for investors seeking long-term investments and are unfamiliar with the ETF's goal of tracking daily returns.
 - m. Rejection of Transaction Risk: When an order is rejected by a foreign exchange or broker due to price or quantity surpassing their trading limits. This may result in the risk of transaction failure.
 - n. Other Risks: In addition to the aforementioned primary risks, investments in this product may face various risks stemming from political, economic, national, market, war, counterparty factors, and other uncontrollable or unforeseeable events not attributable to Bank SinoPac. All such investment risks are to be borne solely by the Client.
 - o. The investment risks of this product vary in accordance with its investment targets and the markets in which it is traded. The investment in foreign equities that are traded in overseas securities markets must adhere to the laws and trading regulations of the registered country, which may differ from the securities trading regulations of the Republic of China.
- D. The Remuneration, Types, and Calculation of the Trust:
- The Client understands and agrees that Bank SinoPac may charge any fees from the transaction counterparty when processing Non-discretionary Money Trust-related transactions as trust remuneration for Bank SinoPac. The charging standards and related regulations are as follows:
- a. Buying Fees:
 - (1) The Fee Standard: The rate is 1.0%.
 - (2) Calculation: Multiply the trust principal by the rate.
 - (3) The Payment Time and Method: The Client shall make a one-time payment to Bank SinoPac upon purchase. However, if the calculated amount does not meet the minimum fee standards set by Bank SinoPac, the stipulated minimum applies.
 - (4) Minimum Fee Standards: The minimum fee for U.S. ETFs is equivalent to USD 20 per transaction; there is no stipulated minimum fee for Hong Kong ETFs.
 - b. Selling Fees:
 - (1) The Fee Standard: The rate is 1.0%.
 - (2) Calculation: Multiplying the transaction price by the rate.
 - (3) Payment Time and Method: The payment shall be made by the Client to Bank SinoPac. Upon the Client's request to sell, the Client authorizes Bank SinoPac to deduct from the trust's principal and interest directly. However, if the calculated amount does not meet Bank SinoPac's minimum fee standards, the stipulated minimum applies.
 - (4) Minimum Fee Standards: The minimum fee for U.S. ETFs is equivalent to USD 20 per transaction; there is no stipulated minimum fee for Hong Kong ETFs.
 - c. Trust Management Fees:
 - (1) The Fee Standard: The annual rate is 0.2%.
 - (2) Calculation: Fees will be computed based on each trust's principal amount, by multiplying the actual holding duration with the annual fee rate.
 - (3) The Payment Time and Method: Payments are to be made by the Client to Bank SinoPac. Upon the Client's request to sell, the Client authorizes Bank SinoPac to deduct from the trust's principal and earnings directly. However, if the amount derived from the aforementioned calculation does not meet Bank SinoPac's minimum fee standards, the stipulated minimum applies.

(4) Minimum Fee Standards: Depending on the currency of the trust, the minimum fees are as follows: TWD 500, USD 15, HKD 120, and CNY 100.

d. Other Fees:

Any domestic or international fees arising from clauses of this Trust Agreement, the investment prospectus, other market-related agreements, or the usage of trust funds shall be borne by the Client. This includes all forms of taxes and costs (including, but not limited to, the fees agreed upon in the contract and service charges of Bank SinoPac). Bank SinoPac has the right to deduct such fees directly from the Client's redemption amount or from the designated account.

E. Notice on Undertaking:

- a. The Client's instructed transactions are either Day Orders (based on the business hours of the foreign exchange) or Good-Till-Cancelled (GTC) orders and may be partially filled or completed in batches.
- b. All transactions are executed as a "Limit Price" transaction, meaning that the Client specifies a purchase or sale price. Bank SinoPac is authorized to execute at this specified price or a better one, depending on market conditions. Regardless of whether the Client's specified limit price is equal to the opening price, closing price, or the day's lowest price, the execution and the actual transaction price depend on the matching results of the foreign exchange. In relation to the entrusted matters, Bank SinoPac diligently upholds its fiduciary duty; however, it does not assume any responsibility or guarantee regarding the completion of the transaction or the executed price.
- c. Bank SinoPac and its commissioned brokers execute relevant transactions for the Client in compliance with the regulations and customs of foreign securities markets, but, due to price fluctuations, it does not guarantee that the Client's trading application will necessarily be executed.
- d. For the Client's ETF investments, the Client should agree on a set of interest crediting accounts for its New Taiwan Dollar trust and foreign currency trust, and the most recently agreed-upon account shall be used for interest crediting.
- e. The Client agrees that Bank SinoPac holds the authority to manage any arising matters related to their investment products, including but not limited to cash dividends, stock dividends, issuance rights, stock warrant issuance, replacement of new shares, reduction and issuance of new shares, stock splits, stock mergers (reverse splits), complete acquisitions, delisting of the issuing company, dissolution or bankruptcy dividends, or any other due compensations and benefits. The Client acknowledges and accepts without reservations all of Bank SinoPac's actions in this regard. Upon completion of the relevant processes, Bank SinoPac shall deposit the resulting funds into the Client's account after deducting relevant transaction and tax expenses."
- f. Daily transaction prices may not necessarily be executed at the day's opening price, closing price, highest price, or lowest price. Bank SinoPac's provision of the previous business day's closing price and delayed quote prices is for reference only and is not a guarantee of the actual execution price.
- g. Given that the investment target is traded abroad, the execution and confirmation of transactions need to align with the operating hours of the foreign exchange. Due to time zone differences, the finalized transaction price for the investment target can only be determined after Bank SinoPac receives a transaction confirmation notice from the securities broker (or its agent). However, if the confirmation notice from the securities broker (or its agent) received by Bank SinoPac is erroneous, or if there are oversights in Bank SinoPac's operations or other reasons that lead to mistakes, the Client agrees that Bank SinoPac has the right to correct the error and inform the Client. Should an error be discovered by Bank SinoPac after the Client has sold the investment target, and there's an overcharge, Bank SinoPac shall promptly refund the Client. Conversely, if there's a shortage, the Client shall return the deficient amount to Bank SinoPac immediately upon notification.

Failure to do so will render the application null and void. Until confirmation of the transaction and associated charges, the Client agrees not to access the funds in the specified account.
 - (2) Special Conditions on Trading:
 - i. Earmarked Reserve: The Client authorizes and agrees that Bank SinoPac will calculate the earmarked amount based on $(\text{Order Limit Price} \times \text{Number of Shares Purchased} + \text{trustees} + \text{Estimated Taxes}) \times \text{Earmark Exchange Rate} \times \text{Earmark Multiplier}$. The amount will be reserved from the Client's deposit account with Bank SinoPac. If the Client's investment trust is in foreign currency, the Earmark Exchange Rate will be 1. The Client understands that they cannot access the reserved funds and agrees that Bank SinoPac will directly debit from the said deposit account on the trade date or the next business day. During the effective period of a GTC Order, if the order cannot be successfully executed on the day of the transaction, Bank SinoPac may re-process the earmarking on the next trading day in the aforementioned manner.

- I. Liability of Bank SinoPac
- a. When the Client instructs Bank SinoPac to execute an ETF transaction, if the actual transaction date is affected by force majeure factors causing domestic or foreign trading markets to close (e.g., typhoon holidays, etc.), the instruction will be deemed void.  - b. The Client acknowledges and understands the inherent unreliability and insecurity in electronically transmitting data, with implicit risks of interruption and delay. Should a transaction or other instructions be delayed or fail to complete due to factors not attributable to Bank SinoPac (including but not limited to power outages, disconnections, network transmission interference, telecom congestion, etc.), the Client agrees that Bank SinoPac may suspend services, without objections, and agrees to handle related matters by other means, with the transaction records provided by Bank SinoPac as the standard. Bank SinoPac bears no liability for breach of contract or compensation.
- J. The Client understands that Bank SinoPac's Non-discretionary Money Trust service involves trading foreign securities as per the Client's instruction, such as those on the US and Hong Kong stock exchanges. The Client instructs Bank SinoPac to appoint SinoPac Securities Corporation or authorize Bank SinoPac to select another broker to act as the sub-trustee for the purchase and sale transactions and to sign contracts with and/or open accounts with that broker and its custodian institution. If traded through SinoPac Securities Corporation, this is considered a related party transaction, and the Client acknowledges that Bank SinoPac may have conflicts of interest in its role in such transactions.
- K. The 'Prospectus' (Prospectus, Prospectus Supplement, or similar documents) is provided by the issuing institution of the ETF. The Client can directly download it from the official website of the relevant ETF issuer.
- L. Notification Service for Reaching Profit/Loss Points via Email:
- a. The "Notification Service for Reaching Profit/Loss Points via Email" refers to the process where, when individual ETF targets stored in the system, which, after calculation, reach the Client's set or default profit/loss point (inclusive), Bank SinoPac will only send information regarding reaching the profit/loss point (inclusive) to the Client's designated email address. For selling, a separate application is required, and the actual return on investment may differ from the notified return (potentially lower, higher, or the same). The agreement on profit/loss points is solely for Bank SinoPac's reference in providing trust services, without any obligation to trade or guarantee.
 - b. The profit/loss points of individual ETF targets are calculated daily based on the closing prices of the individual ETF and exchange rates recorded in Bank SinoPac's computer system.
 - c. Under the same trust account, if the same investment target is repurchased with the same trust currency or if settings are changed, the original set investment return profit/loss point will be based on the repurchase or subsequent settings.
7. Overseas Structured Notes
- A. Definitions: For the purposes of these terms, 'Overseas Structured Notes' refer to compound financial products issued outside the Republic of China in the form of bonds, combining fixed-income products with linked derivative financial products such as equities, interest rates, exchange rates, indices, commodities, credit events, or other interests.
 - B. Acceptance Hours: Bank SinoPac's business hours for over-the-counter transactions of Overseas Structured Notes last from 9:00 AM to 3:30 PM, Monday to Friday.
- C. Investment Risk Disclosure and Precaution
- The Client should note that Investments in Overseas Structured Notes are neither deposits nor financial products guaranteed to be free from principal loss. It does not fall under the coverage of the Central Deposit Insurance Corporation. The Client should understand the characteristics and risks of the product before investment and conduct independent judgements on their risk-bearing capacity, including, but not limited to, the following investment risks:
- a. Minimum Return Risk: The minimum return risk shall include the maximum loss amount, which means the investor might lose the entire principal and interest in the worst case.
 - b. Early Redemption Risk: If the Client redeems the Overseas Structure Notes earlier than maturity, the investor might get back less amount than the original investment amount (the amount could even be zero in the worst case) or not be able to redeem.
 - c. Interest Rate Risk: After a Overseas Structure Note is officially issued and delivered, its mark to market value over its term will be affected by the changes in interest rates in the denominated currency; when the interest rate of the currency goes up, the mark to the market price of the Overseas Structure Notes may fall, and may be lower than the coupon price, which would damage the original investment amount; when the currency interest rate goes down, the mark to market price of the Overseas Structure Notes may increase and may be higher than the coupon price and bring additional revenue.
 - d. Liquidity Risk: These Overseas Structure Notes are not traded on any exchange and lack sufficient liquidity. As a result, investors may be unable to sell these notes to other investors or brokers, and there is no centralized information source for current quotes from other brokers. Under typical market conditions, the secondary market for these Overseas Structure Notes only offers early redemption opportunities provided by the issuing institution to investors. There are no other market participants providing quotes for the secondary market. However, market conditions are unpredictable, and the redemption mechanism offered by the aforementioned issuing institution is not guaranteed indefinitely. Additionally, in situations of limited liquidity, the actual trading price of these Overseas Structure Notes may have a significant spread from its net asset value per unit. This means that if investors redeem the notes before their maturity, they may incur losses to their original investment. In extreme cases where the market loses all liquidity, investors may be forced to hold the Overseas Structure Notes until they mature.

- e. Credit Risk: The Client shall bear the credit risk of the issuer or guarantor of the structured overseas note. The evaluation of "credit risk" depends on the investors' evaluation of the credit rating value of the issuer or guarantor of the structured overseas note; if there is a guaranteed dividend income or guaranteed principal protection rate during the holding period of the structured overseas note, it is guaranteed by the issuer or guarantor, rather than by the Bank SinoPac.
- f. Exchange Rate Risk: Overseas Structure Notes may be denominated in foreign currencies. If the Client invests in NTD or other non-denominated currencies at the beginning of the investment, they shall note that, when the interest and original investment amount in foreign currency are returned, there exists a foreign exchange risk that converting them to TWD asset might result in damaging the investment principal.

A. Definitions:

C. Investment Risk Disclosure and Precaution

The Client should note that Investments in Domestic Structured Notes are neither deposits nor financial products guaranteed to be free from principal loss. It does not fall under coverage of the Central Deposit Insurance Corporation. The Client should understand the characteristics and risks of the product before investment and conduct independent judgments on their risk-bearing capacity, including, but not limited to, the following investment risks:

- a. Linked Underlying Asset Risk: Such as the market price risks of the target assets.
 - b. Market Risk: Unanticipated market, economic, and political factors can lead to sudden changes in the market value and risk structure of derivative financial products.
 - c. Early Termination Risk: Investors, if requesting early termination before the product's contracted maturity, may receive an amount less than their original investment (in the worst-case scenario, the amount could be zero), or early termination might not be possible at all. Whether early termination is allowed depends on the specific contract characteristics or other risk factors. The price might also differ from the investor's initial estimate, potentially affecting both the issuing institution and the investor.
 - d. Early Maturity Event Risk: During the product's lifetime, if the contract price is less than the lower bound price, or the underlying asset is liquidated or merged, it will shorten the expected investment period and result in the amount receivable being less than the original investment amount (in the worst case, the amount may even be zero).
 - e. Liquidity Risk: Derivative financial products suffer from relatively low liquidity, and the domestic and foreign markets or institutions may cause the investor's positions to be unable to be cleared, leading to worse losses or compromised profits for the investor.
 - f. Interest Rate Risk: The market price during the product's lifetime may be affected by fluctuations in interest rates.
 - g. High Participation Rate Risk: If the linked underlying asset's net value descends during the product's lifetime, the multiplier effect of the high participation rate may lead to a worse loss to the product.
 - h. Benchmark Interest Rate Reset Risk: The swap cost borne by investors is calculated using the benchmark interest rate (floating) plus a markup rate. A significant increase in the benchmark interest rate could lead to a substantial rise in the costs that investors must bear.
 - i. Exchange Rate Risk: Exchange rate fluctuations are unpredictable. Changes in market exchange rates may be favorable to the positions held by investors; conversely, they may also result in substantial losses for investors.
 - j. Legal and Taxation Risk: Changes in relevant laws (such as tax laws) may affect the linked underlying asset's price or the product's actual return; the investor must bear the risk arising from legal changes.
 - k. Credit Risk: The return on credit derivative financial products is mainly for bearing the credit risk of the credit entity under the contract; the investor should assess the credit status of the credit entity and issuer and bear the related risks.
 - l. Reinvestment Risk: The inability to reinvest at the original yield after receiving the interest.
 - m. Issuer Default Risk: If the issuer has defaulted, in the worst case, the investor will lose all initially invested principal.
 - n. Country Risk: If the country of registration of the issuing institution experiences events such as wars or similar disturbances, it could lead to losses for investors.
 - o. Other Risks: In addition to the principal risks mentioned above, investment in this product may face any investment risk arising from political, economic, war, trading counterparts, and other force majeure or reasons not attributable to Bank SinoPac, all of which are to be borne by the Client.
 - p. The investment risks of this product vary based on its investment targets and the trading markets of its investments. As it trades in foreign securities markets, it should comply with the laws and trading regulations of the registered country, which may differ from the securities trading regulations of the Republic of China.
 - q. The aforementioned risk warnings only list the significant parts and cannot detail every investment risk and factors affecting market trends. Before subscription, The Client should understand the related investment risks and other factors that might affect investment returns and thoroughly assess the risks to avoid incurring unbearable losses. They should bear the profits or losses. For detailed risk warnings, please refer to the respective product prospectus.

The Client should also remit the subscription amount (including the trust principal and subscription fee) to their designated account opened with Bank SinoPac; otherwise, this application will not be effective. Clients agree that Bank SinoPac, on the day of this investment application transaction, will deduct the trust principal and subscription fee from their designated account with Bank SinoPac to process investment-related matters. Clients agree that. Before the investment application transaction is confirmed and the relevant amounts are deducted, they shall not use (or earmark) the funds in the designated deduction account. If the transaction cannot be successfully completed and a notification is received from the issuing institution, the Client agrees that Bank SinoPac will return the subscription amount without interest within a specified period (as stipulated in each product prospectus) after receiving the notification that the transaction could not be completed. G. Cancellation of Transactions

Requests for transaction cancellations are permissible solely for orders that remain unexecuted within the stipulated transaction validity period. Such requests must be tendered within the business hours designated for over-the-counter transactions at Bank SinoPac. It should be noted, however, that the actual cancellable amount of the Domestic Structured Notes is contingent upon the transactional status maintained by the issuing institution. Consequently, the submission of a cancellation request does not unequivocally assure the revocation of the said transaction (the transactional amount is not amenable to partial cancellations; it is subject to complete annulment). Should a transaction be irrevocably confirmed, rendering cancellation unfeasible, Bank SinoPac shall undertake subsequent settlement procedures and other pertinent matters in accordance with the actual transactional details. Such a transaction shall retain its validity with respect to the Client. Bank SinoPac expressly reserves the discretionary right to either accept or decline any client-initiated transaction cancellation request.

H. Trust Certificate

When Bank SinoPac processes domestic structured product transactions as per the Client's instructions, the Client agrees that Bank SinoPac will register the remaining trust property data in the Client's trust account via a logging method. Bank SinoPac will send transaction statements to the Client and will not provide a physical trust certificate separately.

If the Client's transaction instructions, upon evaluation by Bank SinoPac, are determined to pose operational risks to Bank SinoPac, the Bank reserves the right to decline the transaction and will notify the Client accordingly.

J. Upon the expiration of this product, should there be an instance of physical delivery, the securities to be delivered might possess a risk profile that potentially exceeds the risk level associated with the Domestic Structured Notes

- trading.
- d. Prior to using the Trustee's services, the Trustor should carefully read the service content or other relevant public information. The Trustor should review all related documents disclosed by this Service to understand the content, terms, such as descriptions regarding algorithms or portfolio construction, fees for using this Service, termination of this Service and subsequent procedures, and time required for asset liquidation to ensure their rights and interests.
 - e. The Trustor should be aware of the intrinsic limitations of the investment instruments of this Service and its potential disparities from reality, including:
 - (1) Basic assumptions of the system or program: The Trustor should recognize the system's limitations and key basic assumptions, but these assumptions may not necessarily correspond with facts or individual scenarios. For example, if the system anticipates a rising trend in future interest rates, but market interest rates remain low, the system's assumptions will be inconsistent with reality.
 - (2) Range of products offered: The Trustor should understand the limitations of the investment products offered by the system, such as possibly only including funds or exchange-traded funds (ETFs), excluding individual stocks, which may not align with the Trustor's investment objectives. Additionally, single products like ETF types may not encompass all market ETFs, resulting in limited Portfolio recommendations.
 - f. The Trustor should understand that the advice provided by the system is directly tied to the information offered by the Client: The question list outlined by the system will limit or affect the content of the information provided by the Trustor, which in turn influences the results of the Trustee's system's advice (i.e., Portfolio suggestions). Hence, if the Trustor does not understand the questions posed by the system, they should immediately consult the Trustee. The Trustor should also realize that the questions listed by the Trustee's system may be overly generalized, vague, or potentially misleading, and may prompt the Trustor to choose the system's preset options.
 - g. The Trustor should understand that the Portfolio advice provided by the system may not align with the Trustor's financial needs or objectives: As the system cannot evaluate all situations and environments of the Client, such as age, financial status, investment experience, other assets, tax conditions, risk tolerance, investment recovery period, cash requirements, and investment objectives, the Portfolio advice may not necessarily meet individual Client's needs. For example, the system might only consider the Client's age without taking into account the Client's assets at other financial institutions, or plans to purchase real estate after a period of investment; or the system may not consider that the Client's investment objectives may change, unable to make corresponding adjustments.
- C. Trust Instructions and the Notification Method with Bank SinoPac
- a. If the Trustor wishes to perform any business under this Service, the Trustor must first log in to the Trustee's online banking or mobile banking website to issue instructions. Except for physically or mentally disabled individuals who can seek assistance from bank counter staff for online processing of this Service, the Trustee does not accept the Client's application for this Service through counter services.
 - b. The Trustor agrees that only a single instruction can be issued to a single Portfolio; the Trustee does not accept instructions for single targets.
 - c. The Trustor agrees that the Trustee's notifications will be made by written or electronic transmission (including email, text messages, etc.).
 - d. If there are any changes to the email address, mailing address, or phone numbers that the Trustor has retained with the Trustee, the Trustor should log into the Trustee's online banking to make according changes. Any loss or dispute arising from delays or errors in notifications due to failure to update promptly shall be borne by the Trustor.
 - e. The Trustor acknowledges that notification services may fail or be delayed due to factors not attributable to the Trustee, such as email server issues, personal computer settings, mobile phone shutdown, full inbox, poor reception, or mobile devices not activating push services. The Trustee bears no responsibility for this.
- D. Transaction Agreements
- a. The business day referred to in this Service means the business day both in Taiwan and the United States. If the Trustor's instruction is not on a business day, the Trustee will postpone the processing to the next business day.
 - b. The investment target of this Service is ETFs. The Trustor agrees to foreign securities transactions under this Service, and authorization is granted to securities brokers selected by the Trustee to assist in placing orders.
 - c. To mitigate the impact of large transactions on the market price of the investment target, the Trustor agrees that the Trustee's chosen financial institution will place orders in a diversified manner. The transaction price of the investment target will fall between the high and low points of the day.
 - d. The Trustor is only allowed to set up one deposit account for each Portfolio for the receipt and payment of trust funds, specifically for transaction debiting, redemption payment, and account management fees.
 - e. The Trustor agrees that cash dividends accrued from the investment targets will be directly reinvested by the Trustee in those targets.
 - f. The minimum investment amount, the debit dates of Dollar Cost Averaging Investment, and other relevant rules for this Service shall be governed by the announcements on the Trustee's website.
- E. Single Subscription and Dollar Cost Averaging Investment Subscription
- a. The Trustor may choose one of three subscription manners: single subscription, Dollar Cost Averaging Investment, or single subscription coupled with Dollar Cost Averaging Investment. The Trustor must not invest in products that exceed their investment attribute level.
 - b. The Trustor is solely responsible for determining whether to accept the portfolio allocation advice as displayed on the webpage. Should the Client elect to adhere to such investment guidance, they must initiate the subscription process via the Trustee's online or mobile banking interface, adhering to the step-by-step instructions provided therein to confirm the particulars of the investment, thereby finalizing the directives to the Trustee.
 - c. Following the Trustor's completion of a one-time subscription directive (on the designated instruction date), the Trustee shall promptly conduct an earmarking procedure in accordance with the Client's specified amount and deposit account. On the subsequent business day (the effective date), the designated account shall be debited, and investments shall be allocated to various targets in alignment with the Trustor's stipulated investment ratio.
 - d. After the Trustor has finalized the Dollar Cost Averaging subscription directive (on the instruction date), the Trustee shall execute a direct debit in conformity with the Client's predetermined date, sum, and account, allocating investments to diverse targets in accordance with the Trustor's prescribed investment proportion. Should the Dollar Cost Averaging subscription directive coincide with the Client's chosen debit date, the portfolio's Dollar Cost Averaging debit shall commence from the ensuing month. For example, if the Client mandates a monthly debit on the 6th, with the portfolio's activation date being July 6, 2019, the Dollar Cost Averaging process will be initiated on August 6, 2019, as per the Client's delineated amount and account.

- e. In the event of a system malfunction or unforeseen circumstances at the Trustee's end during the Dollar Cost Averaging debit procedure, the Trustor consents to a deferral of the debit until the hindrance is resolved.
 - f. If the Trustee's execution of the Dollar Cost Averaging debit and investment procedure, as directed by the Trustor, aligns with the portfolio's expiration date, the corresponding debit and investment actions shall be annulled, and the Trustor shall not lodge any objections.
 - g. Should the Trustor's specified account encompass multiple portfolios, and the residual balance within said account is inadequate to cover the investment sum, the Trustor accedes to the sequential debit process as orchestrated by the Trustee's system, without the right to dictate the sequence or lodge dissent.
- F. Asset Rebalancing
- a. Execution Timing: Monthly
 - b. Execution Conditions:
 - (1) The Trustee's system shall continuously monitor the status of the portfolio. Should the portfolio deviate to a degree that meets the standards set by the Trustee, an asset rebalancing notification shall be dispatched to the Trustor.
 - (2) Upon receipt of the notification, the Trustor reserves the right to decide whether to accept the asset rebalancing adjustment advice proffered by the Trustee. If the Trustor wishes to accept such adjustment advice, they must confirm the details of the portfolio adjustment within the period specified by the Trustee, via the Trustee's online or mobile banking interface, thereby finalizing the instructions to the Trustee. Should the Trustor reject the advice or fail to confirm within the allotted time, the Trustee shall abstain from making any adjustments to the portfolio.
 - c. Execution Method:
 - i. The Trustee shall initially redeem the targets within the portfolio that are to be reduced in proportion and, upon receipt of the redemption funds, subscribe to the targets that require an increased proportion.
 - d. Incurred Costs and Potential Limitations:
 - (1) All costs generated by the Trustee in executing asset rebalancing, such as handling fees, exchange fees, securities transaction taxes, etc., shall not be additionally charged to the Client.
 - (2) The Trustor must reassess their investment attributes annually. If, after reassessment, the investment attributes fail to comply with the suitability standards established by the Trustee, asset rebalancing cannot be completed until the Trustor's investment attributes align with the Trustee's suitability standards. Furthermore, if the Trustor's investment attributes are not reassessed within the stipulated period or are found to be deficient, asset rebalancing shall also be unattainable.
 - (3) Prior to the portfolio's expiration, should the Trustor terminate, fail to sign the "Investment Advisory Appointment Contract," or if the original portfolio is inherited by an heir, the Trustee shall be rendered incapable of providing asset rebalancing service.
- G. Portfolio Risk Attribute Conversion
- a. Execution Timing: Daily, with immediate notification.
 - b. Execution Conditions:
 - (1) The system will monitor the portfolio risk level and the Trustor's risk tolerance daily. If the Trustor's risk tolerance changes to a level lower than the portfolio risk level, but still complies with the product suitability standards, the system will send a notification for portfolio risk attribute conversion to the Trustor, along with advice for adjusting the portfolio risk level. If the Trustor's risk tolerance changes to a level greater than or equal to the portfolio risk level before accepting the conversion advice, the system will cancel the advice.
 - (2) Upon receiving the advice for portfolio risk attribute conversion, the Trustor has the right to decide whether to accept the Trustee's adjustment advice or maintain the original portfolio risk level. If the Trustor wishes to accept the advice, they must confirm the details of the portfolio risk level adjustment on the Trustee's online or mobile banking page, thereby completing the instruction to the Trustee. Before the Trustor accepts the advice, the Trustee will not make any adjustments to the portfolio settings.
 - c. Execution Method: The Trustee will adjust the allocation ratio for the portfolio in the next Dollar Cost Averaging deduction or maintain the original portfolio allocation for deduction, according to the Trustor's instruction.
 - d. Potential Costs and Limitations:
 - (1) All costs generated by the Trustee in executing the portfolio risk attribute conversion, such as handling fees, exchange fees, securities transaction taxes, etc., will not be charged separately to the Trustor.
 - (2) The Trustor must reassess their investment attributes annually. If they do not meet the Trustee's product suitability standards after reassessment, the portfolio risk attribute conversion service cannot be executed until the Trustor's investment attributes comply with the Trustee's standards. If the Trustor's investment attributes are overdue for reassessment or are incomplete, the conversion service cannot be completed.
 - (3) If the Trustor terminates, fails to sign the 'Investment Advisory Appointment Contract,' or the original portfolio is inherited before the portfolio's maturity, the Trustee will be unable to provide the conversion service.
 - (4) Before the Trustor accepts the advice for portfolio risk attribute conversion, the Trustee will suspend the asset rebalancing and adjustment plan services until the next business day after the Trustor completes the conversion service.
- H. Adjustment Plan
- a. Execution Timing: Daily, with notifications sent on the first business day of each week.
 - b. Execution Conditions:
 - (1) The system will monitor the portfolio status and probability of reaching the target daily. If the probability of reaching the target is less than 50%, making it unlikely that the portfolio will achieve the Trustor's target amount on schedule, an adjustment plan advice will be sent to the Trustor, with reminders sent on the first business day of each week. If the probability rises to 50% or above before the Trustor accepts the advice, the system will cancel the advice, and the Trustor will not need to execute the adjustment plan.

- (2) The Trustor may log in to the online or mobile banking daily to check whether an adjustment plan needs to be executed that day and has the right to decide whether to accept the Trustee's advice. If the Trustor wishes to accept the advice, they must confirm the investment plan adjustment details on the Trustee's online or mobile banking page, thereby completing the instruction to the Trustee. Before the Trustor accepts the advice, the Trustee will not make any adjustments to the investment plan settings.
- c. Execution Method:
- (1) Up to four adjustment plan options: Extend the investment period, reduce the target amount, adjust the monthly investment amount, and add a one-time investment amount.
 - (2) For the adjustment plan to extend the investment period or reduce the target amount, the investment term or target amount will be adjusted immediately upon successful execution.
 - (3) For the adjustment plan to change the monthly investment amount, if the change is completed before 23:59 on the business day before the 'original deduction day,' it will take effect that month; if it is adjusted on or after the 'original deduction day,' it will take effect the following month.
 - (4) For the adjustment plan to add a one-time investment amount, the deduction date for the one-time investment amount will be the next business day after the application date. If it coincides with the original monthly deduction day, the deductions will be separate.
- d. Potential Costs and Limitations:
- (1) All costs generated by the Trustee in executing the adjustment plan, such as handling fees, exchange fees, securities transaction taxes, etc., will not be charged separately to the Trustor.
 - (2) The Trustor must reassess their investment attributes annually. If they do not meet the Trustee's product suitability standards after reassessment, the adjustment plan service cannot be executed until the Trustor's investment attributes comply with the Trustee's standards. If the Trustor's investment attributes are overdue for reassessment or are incomplete, the adjustment plan cannot be completed.
 - (3) If the Trustor terminates, fails to sign the 'Investment Advisory Appointment Contract,' or the original portfolio is inherited before the portfolio's maturity, the Trustee will be unable to provide the adjustment plan service.
 - (4) After sending the adjustment plan notification, the Trustee will suspend the asset rebalancing advice service until the next asset rebalancing notification day after the Trustor completes the adjustment plan instruction.
- I. Reinvestment of Dividends
- a. Execution Method: The dividends from the Trustor's portfolio targets will be invested in the corresponding dividend-paying investment targets.
 - b. Potential Costs and Limitations:
 - (1) The Trustee will not charge the Trustor for any costs incurred in executing the reinvestment of dividends, such as handling fees, exchange fees, securities transaction taxes, etc.
 - (2) When the Trustee carries out the reinvestment of dividends, if there is a computer system failure or force majeure, the Trustor agrees to postpone the transaction until the obstacle is removed.
 - (3) If the transaction date for reinvesting dividends coincides with the portfolio's expiration date, that investment operation will be canceled, and the Trustor shall not object.
 - (4) If the Trustor's portfolio has any pending reinvestment of dividends, the termination of the portfolio instruction must wait until the transaction is complete.
- J. Termination and Expiration of Portfolio
- a. The Trustor may issue a termination instruction for the portfolio at any time and understands that only a complete termination instruction can be issued for a specific portfolio. Individual investment targets within the portfolio cannot be terminated or redeemed separately.
 - b. After the Trustor completes the specified portfolio termination instruction (instruction date), the Trustee will redeem all targets under the specified portfolio on the next business day (effective date). The proceeds, minus the account management fee, will be transferred to the Trustor's designated account.
 - c. The Trustor understands that the portfolio has an expiration date:
 - (1) For a one-time subscription to the portfolio, the expiration date is the last business day of the month when the investment period ends. Example: If the portfolio's effective date is July 5, 2019, and the investment period is 10 years, the expiration date is July 31, 2029.
 - (2) If the portfolio is subscribed through Dollar Cost Averaging or a combination of one-time and Dollar Cost Averaging, the expiration date is the last business day of the month before the investment period ends. Example: If the Trustor instructs a Dollar Cost Averaging deduction on the 6th of each month, and the portfolio's effective date is July 5, 2019, with an investment period of 10 years, the expiration date is June 30, 2029. If the Dollar Cost Averaging subscription instruction date and the Trustor's specified deduction date are the same, the expiration date is the last business day of the month when the investment period ends. Example: If the Trustor instructs a Dollar Cost Averaging deduction on the 6th of each month, and the portfolio's effective date is July 6, 2019, with an investment period of 10 years, the expiration date is July 31, 2029.
 - d. When the portfolio reaches its expiration date, the Trustee will redeem all targets under the portfolio. The redemption proceeds, minus the account management fee, will be transferred to the Trustor's designated account at the time of subscription. Example: If the portfolio's subscription effective date is July 15, 2019, and the investment period is 10 years, the Trustee will redeem it on July 31, 2029. The Trustor understands that if there are any pending transactions at the time the portfolio reaches its expiration date, the Trustee must wait for the transactions to be completed before executing the redemption.
 - e. The Trustor understands that if there are any pending transactions in the portfolio (e.g., unfinished investment target allocation or ongoing asset rebalancing), they must wait for the transactions to be completed before issuing a termination instruction for the portfolio.
 - f. The Trustor understands that when issuing a termination instruction on the Trustee's webpage, the numbers displayed on the webpage are calculated based on the latest available data in the Trustee's system and may differ from the actual credited amount.
- K. Account Management Fee
- a. Each portfolio under the Trustor's name must pay a monthly account management fee, calculated as 1% annually of the portfolio's daily market value. The fee will be collected by the Trustee from the Trustor's designated account on the third business day of each month. However, if there is a computer system failure or force majeure, the Trustor agrees to postpone the deduction until the obstacle is removed.

- b. The account management fee rate is 1% per annum.
- c. The portfolio's market value is calculated by multiplying the cumulative shares of individual targets by the price and converting the total into New Taiwan Dollars.
- d. If the Trustor has multiple portfolios under the designated account, and the available balance in that designated account is insufficient to pay the account management fees for all portfolios, the Trustor agrees to deduct the fees in the order of the Trustee's system's deduction operation. The Trustor may not specify the order or object.
- e. If the balance in the Trustor's designated account is insufficient, the account management fee will be deferred to the following month and combined with the next month's fee. If the designated account balance continues to be insufficient, it will be deducted from the redemption proceeds after the Trustor applies for termination or expiration.

L. Other Important Agreements

- a. The Trustor understands and agrees that the Trustee may instruct SinoPac Securities Corporation or authorize the Trustee to select another securities firm to act as the sub-trustee for securities trading. If transactions are conducted through SinoPac Securities Corporation or SinoPac Securities (Asia) Limited, it constitutes a transaction with a related party of the trust business, and the Trustor acknowledges that conflicts of interest may arise from the roles played by the Trustee in such transactions.
- b. When the Trustor instructs the Trustee to conduct a transaction, if the actual transaction date is affected by force majeure causing the closure of domestic or foreign trading markets (such as typhoon holidays), the instruction will be considered void. The Client shall not claim any rights or demand compensation or joint liability from the Trustee if the Client's investment or trading instructions cannot be immediately executed due to market closure, orders to stop trading, holidays at the location of the institutions mentioned above, or orders to suspend business.
- c. The Trustor understands and agrees that electronic transactions inherently carry unreliability and insecurity in data transmission, with inherent risks such as interruptions and delays. If the Trustee or related transaction/service institutions are unable to complete transactions or other instructions due to natural disasters, telecommunications line or transmission system equipment failures, third-party actions, or other factors not attributable to the Trustee (including but not limited to power outages, disconnections, network transmission interference, telecommunications congestion, etc.), the Trustor agrees that the Trustee may complete the transaction outside the original agreed transaction date. The Trustor shall have no objections and agrees that the Trustee may handle related matters in other ways, with the transaction record provided by the Trustee as the standard. The Trustee shall not bear any liability for breach of contract, compensation, or the price difference arising from the time difference.
- d. Unless otherwise agreed by the parties, the Trustee may temporarily suspend or terminate the Trustor's investment transactions (including but not limited to Dollar-Cost Averaging investment, changing portfolios, etc.) if any of the following occurs: (1) Temporary suspension or termination by court order, legal interpretation, or regulatory authority. (2) Death of the Trustor (i.e., beneficiary), with notification and delivery to the Trustee by the entitled person. (3) Other reasons not attributable to SinoPac Bank, making it impossible to carry out investment transactions as instructed by the Client.
- e. If either party loses its capacity to act, dissolves, undergoes reorganization, becomes bankrupt, or ceases operations, the other party may notify in writing or in another manner agreed upon by both parties to terminate investment transactions or terminate the contract.
- f. The terms of this service agreement are part of the specific money trust fund agreement, and all other matters shall be handled according to the specific money trust fund agreement.

M. Investment Risk Disclosure and Precaution

- a. The Trustor should note that the investment targets of this service are index equity funds (hereinafter referred to as ETFs), which are traded on foreign securities markets and must comply with the laws and regulations of the registered country. These may differ from the regulations of securities trading in the Republic of China.
- b. ETFs are not deposits and are not guaranteed financial products that protect the principal. They are not covered by the Central Deposit Insurance Corporation, and the Trustor must bear the risk.
- c. The following risk disclosures only list essential parts and cannot detail all investment risks and market-influencing factors. The Trustor is advised to read the prospectus before trading and should fully understand the related investment risks and other factors that may affect investment returns. The Trustor should assess their financial situation and risk tolerance to avoid unbearable losses from trading.
 - (1) Market Risk: The net asset value of ETFs fluctuates with the price of the securities they hold, and market trading prices may fluctuate widely without limits. The Trustor's investment may lead to a loss of principal, with the maximum possible loss being the entire investment principal.
 - (2) Liquidity Risk: ETFs may experience situations where they cannot be traded or only partially traded due to insufficient liquidity or other factors. The Trustor should be aware of the price fluctuation risks and market risks derived from liquidity risk.
 - (3) Exchange Rate Risk: ETFs are foreign currency-denominated investment products. If the Trustor undertakes the investment with funds in a currency other than the currency in which the product is priced, they should be aware of the exchange rate risk that may result in an amount less than the investment principal when converting back to the non-product pricing currency.
 - (4) Passive Investment Risk: Most ETFs are not actively managed, and ETF managers do not attempt to select individual stocks or take defensive measures in downtrends.
 - (5) Tracking Error Risk: Due to factors such as fees and expenses, there is a risk of slight deviation between the ETF and the tracking index.
 - (6) Liquidation Risk: When the net asset value of the ETF is lower than the prescribed minimum net asset value on any specific valuation date or other special circumstances, the fund management company may decide to liquidate after its own assessment, selling all related assets for liquidation.

- (7) Settlement Risk: If there are emergency special circumstances, market changes, or holidays in the ETF's issuing country, exchange, or securities settlement clearing institution, changes in settlement regulations may lead to temporary inability to settle or settlement delays.
- (8) Counterparty Risk: Different countries have different legal control regulations for ETFs, resulting in differences in investment structures. If the ETF's investment position involves derivative products, there may be risks arising from one party's failure to fulfill the promised returns in the trading contract, affecting the ETF's investment performance.
- (9) Other Risks: In addition to the principal risks mentioned above, investment in ETFs may face various investment risks arising from factors such as politics, economics, nations, markets, wars, trading counterparts, and other unforeseeable or non-attributable factors to the Trustee. All such risks shall be borne solely by the Trustor.
- d. The ETFs invested in by this service are traded on foreign securities markets and must comply with the laws and trading regulations of the registered local country, which may differ from the regulations of securities trading in the Republic of China.
- e. The Prospectus, Prospectus Supplement, or other related documents are provided by the issuing institution of the ETF. The Trustor can download them directly from the official website of the relevant issuing institution.
- N. The Client understands that when issuing termination instructions on the SinoPac Bank webpage, the numbers displayed on the webpage are calculated based on the latest information available in the SinoPac Bank system for reference, and there may be discrepancies with the actual credited amount.

Bank SinoPac shall not be liable for any such occurrences.
- C. Dollar Cost Averaging Investment Agreement:
- Investment Target Types: The Client entrusts Bank SinoPac to buy securities on a Dollar-Cost Averaging basis within the range of U.S. stocks/U.S. stock ETFs selected by Bank SinoPac. The detailed scope of targets shall be in accordance with Bank SinoPac's website announcement.
 - Deduction Date, Method, and Amount:
 - During the effective period of the trust contract, the Client shall keep sufficient funds in the specified deduction account one business day before the specified deduction date to facilitate computerized deduction operations. Otherwise, it will be regarded as not entrusting investment. If there is insufficient balance due to multiple investment targets, the Client agrees to follow the order of Bank SinoPac's deduction operations without specifying or objecting.
 - If the Client has applied for Bank SinoPac's overdraft limit, and the designated deduction account is insufficient, leading to the use of the overdraft limit, the interest expense shall be borne by the Client. For detailed overdraft interest rates, please refer to the "Credit and Transaction General Application Form" signed with Bank SinoPac.

 - The investment target of this Product is U.S. stocks/U.S. stock ETFs. The Client agrees to authorize the securities broker selected by Bank SinoPac to assist in placing orders for foreign securities transactions related to this Product.
 - To avoid large transactions affecting the market price of the investment target, the Client agrees that the securities broker selected by Bank SinoPac will place orders in a dispersed manner. The transaction price of the investment target will be between the high and low points of the day. The transaction price of the investment target is the weighted average price calculated by the total quantity and amount of all Clients' transactions. Bank SinoPac will distribute to the Client according to the proportion of the trust amount after the transaction is completed.
 - If the Client is a non-professional investor, they may continue to deduct according to the original agreement if the investment attribute level changes after re-evaluating the investment attributes, but they may not increase the deduction amount and frequency. If the Client applies to resume deductions in advance, and the product level exceeds the Client's investment attribute level from the date of resuming deductions, this application will be deemed invalid.
 - If Bank SinoPac encounters situations such as splitting, reverse splitting, capital reduction, delisting, merging, code change, suspension of trading, etc., on the Client's regular deduction date, the Client's regular deduction date will be postponed according to the actual operation situation.
- D. Selling Transaction Agreement:
- The minimum number of shares to be sold for each transaction is 1 share. If the number of shares available for sale is less than 1 share, they must be sold in full; if the remaining number of shares available for sale is less than 1 share after selling, they must be included in the current number of shares sold.

b. Selling Examples:

(1) The Client's holding of Apple (AAPL) shares is 0.5 shares, and the minimum unit number that can be sold is only 0.5 shares.
(2) The Client's holding of Apple (AAPL) shares is 2.5 shares, so the minimum number of shares that can be sold is 1 share, with a remaining number of shares available for sale of 1.5 shares.

(3) The Client's holding of Apple (AAPL) shares available for sale is 1.5 shares. If the Client chooses to sell 1 share, the remaining number of shares available for sale is 0.5 shares, less than 1 share, and the remaining number of shares available for sale must also be included in the current number of shares sold, with a total number of shares sold of 1.5 shares.

c. Bank SinoPac processes the sale of U.S. stocks/U.S. stock ETFs according to the Client's instructions, and the Client agrees that Bank SinoPac will handle the selling shares on a first-in-first-out basis. The Client agrees that after the partial sale transaction of U.S. stocks/U.S. stock ETFs, Bank SinoPac will record the remaining trust property data in the Client's trust account and send a transaction statement to the Client without issuing a physical trust certificate.

d. To avoid large transactions affecting the market price of the investment target, the Client agrees that the securities broker selected by Bank SinoPac will place orders in a dispersed manner. The transaction price of the investment target will be between the high and low points of the day.

e. The Client understands that when terminating instructions on Bank SinoPac's webpage, the numerical figures displayed are calculated based on the latest available data from Bank SinoPac's system for reference, and there may be discrepancies with the actual credited amount.

f. The investment value in online banking is converted based on Bank SinoPac's closing price of the U.S. dollar to Taiwan dollar exchange rate on the previous day; the actual selling of the Client's U.S. stocks/U.S. stock ETFs is referenced to Bank SinoPac's real-time exchange rate of U.S. dollars to Taiwan dollars during trading hours, and the values of both may differ due to exchange rate fluctuations.

g. If Bank SinoPac encounters situations such as splitting, reverse splitting, capital reduction, delisting, merging, code change, suspension of trading, etc., on the Client's regular deduction date for Dollar-Cost Averaging investment, the Client's regular deduction date will be postponed according to the actual operation situation.

E. Termination of Dollar Cost Averaging Investment Contract:

a. The Client must understand that the Dollar-Cost Averaging investment contract (hereinafter referred to as "Contract") has no limitation on duration, but the Client may at any time issue termination instructions for the Contract. Termination of the Contract means that Bank SinoPac will cease deductions for that particular Dollar-Cost Averaging investment Contract. The Client's existing U.S. stocks/U.S. stock ETF positions will not be sold simultaneously.

b. In the event that the agreed purchase of U.S. stocks/U.S. stock ETFs is delisted, or the issuing company is acquired, Bank SinoPac may automatically terminate the Client's Contract. If there is a suspension of trading in U.S. stocks/U.S. stock ETFs before or after the acquisition, it shall be governed by its regulations.

c. The termination of the Dollar-Cost Averaging investment Contract between the Client and Bank SinoPac does not affect the other rights and obligations of both parties, except for the deduction investment agreement.

F. Fee Standards and Collection Methods:

The Client understands and agrees to Bank SinoPac's fee standards and related provisions as follows:

a. Transaction Fees:

(1) Buy/Sell Commission Rate: 0.5%, with a minimum charge standard of New Taiwan Dollar (NTD) 100.

b. Trust Management Fees:

(1) Fee Standard: Annual rate of 0.2%.

(2) Calculation Method: Calculated based on each trust principal, multiplied by the annual fee rate according to its actual holding period.

(3) Payment Time and Method: Paid by the Client to Bank SinoPac, and when the Client sells U.S. stocks/U.S. stock ETFs, Bank SinoPac will directly deduct it from the trust principal and interest. However, if the calculated trust management fee is less than NTD 100, it will be deducted at NTD 100.

G. Other Transaction-Related Agreements

a. The Client understands and agrees that Bank SinoPac may instruct SinoPac Securities Corporation or authorize Bank SinoPac to select other securities firms to serve as the brokers for the entrusted purchases and sales. If transactions are carried out through SinoPac Securities Corporation or SinoPac Securities (Asia) Company, they are considered as transactions with stakeholders in the trust business. The Client acknowledges that Bank SinoPac may have conflicts of interest arising from the roles it plays in these transactions.

b. When the Client instructs Bank SinoPac to conduct transactions, if the actual transaction day is affected by force majeure factors causing Taiwan or foreign trading markets to close (e.g., due to typhoon holidays), the said order will be considered invalid. The Client shall not assert any rights, demand compensation for damages or assume any joint liability towards Bank SinoPac due to the inability to execute the Client's instructions immediately due to market closures, trading suspension orders, holidays in the locations of the institutions mentioned in the previous clause, or orders to suspend business operations.

c. Bank SinoPac and the brokers it engages conduct related transactions for the Client in accordance with the norms and conventions of foreign securities markets to achieve the purpose of the trust. Notwithstanding, due to factors such as price fluctuations, the execution of the Client's trading application is not guaranteed.

d. The Client understands and agrees that electronic transactions inherently involve risks such as data transmission interruptions and delays. If, due to natural disasters, telecommunications or transmission system failures, the actions of third parties, or other factors not attributable to Bank SinoPac (including but not limited to power outages, disconnection, network transmission interference, telecom congestion, etc.), the transactions or other instructions are delayed or cannot be completed, the Client agrees that Bank SinoPac may suspend all services. The Client shall have no objections and agrees to handle related matters through other means, accepting the transaction records provided by Bank SinoPac as final. Bank SinoPac shall not bear any liability for breach of contract or compensation.

e. Unless otherwise agreed, Bank SinoPac may temporarily suspend or terminate the Client's investment transactions if any of the following occurs:
(1) Temporary suspension or termination as ordered by a court, legal interpretations, or competent authorities. (2) The death of the Client is notified to Bank SinoPac by the rights holder. (3) Other causes not attributable to Bank SinoPac prevent investment transactions as instructed by the Client.

- f. If either party loses its capacity to act, is dissolved, undergoes reorganization, declares bankruptcy, or ceases to operate, the other party may terminate the investment transactions or terminate the contract by written or other agreed-upon means.
- g. This Agreement is part of the terms for the Non-discretionary Money Trust funds, and all other matters not covered herein shall be handled in accordance with the terms for the Non-discretionary Money Trust funds.
- h. For the Client's US stock/US ETF investment, a designated account for receiving dividends in New Taiwan Dollars will be set up, and the account specified most recently will be used as the account for receiving dividends this time.
- i. The Client agrees that Bank SinoPac has the right to take all necessary actions related to the cash dividends, stock dividends, distribution of rights or warrants, new stock issues, reduction of capital to issue new shares, stock splits, reverse stock splits (consolidation), complete acquisitions, delisting of the stock issuing company, liquidation or bankruptcy, remaining property which may be allocated during liquidation, or other compensations and benefits arising from the Client's investment products. The Client has no objections to any actions taken by Bank SinoPac. After the completion of the process, Bank SinoPac will deposit the proceeds, after deducting related transaction fees and tax expenses, directly into the Client's account.
- j. Except as otherwise provided by law, Bank SinoPac has no obligation to exercise voting rights or other voting powers on behalf of the Client in respect to the Client's investment in shares. Bank SinoPac bears no responsibility or obligation regarding the proxy of equity or documents related to the exercise of voting rights or voting powers, nor does it have any responsibility or obligation to notify the Client on this matter.
- k. The Client declares that the Client is neither a U.S. citizen nor a company registered in the United States. In connection with U.S. and other foreign laws and regulations, investors holding U.S. citizenship should actively notify Bank SinoPac in writing and provide the necessary evidence or documents as required by Bank SinoPac, either when opening a trust account or subsequently holding U.S. citizenship. In the aforementioned situation, the trust relationship will be terminated. Should the Client violate, the Client shall bear the corresponding legal responsibilities, and if Bank SinoPac incurs any damages as a result (including but not limited to penalties by regulatory authorities), the Client is willing to assume the liability for damage compensation [including but not limited to any fees (including litigation costs), losses, fines, and other similar expenses].

If it is found that, in respect of such matter, Bank SinoPac intentionally, or due to gross negligence, violated the above conditions, Bank SinoPac shall bear liability for damages to the Cardholder.

- J. In the event of an erroneous transaction in foreign currency, and the highest available amount of foreign currency deposit is insufficient for the debit, the Client agrees that Bank SinoPac may convert the erroneous transaction amount of the foreign currency into equivalent New Taiwan Dollars at Bank SinoPac's prevailing interest rate for the sale of foreign currency (usually U.S. Dollars, or as otherwise agreed upon by the Cardholder for that particular transaction) two working days prior, and add the service fee for foreign transactions.

To safeguard the security of the Client's deposits, Bank SinoPac may, at any time, restrict transaction amounts and/or frequencies for riskier merchants. In the situations aforementioned, if Bank SinoPac has exercised reasonable care or complied with international standards, the Client may not use the lack of signature as a defense to refuse payment.
 - If the Client chooses to make transactions in NTD outside Taiwan or with a foreign acquiring institution or the contracted merchant, choose NTD as // In the event that the Cardholder chooses to make purchases in NTD in regions outside Taiwan or through acquiring institutions located overseas, or when a contracted merchant select NTD as the currency for the authorized transaction, earmarking and debiting will be still executed in NTD current deposit with an additional foreign transaction fee levied.

 - The merchant may proceed without requiring a signature if the Client is initially required to check out by signature and the transaction amount falls under a category where international organizations allow signature-free transactions.
 - For self-service fuel transactions through automated devices or hotel room booking deposits, considered specially authorized or pre-authorized transactions, Bank SinoPac may first earmark a fixed or merchant-specified amount within the available balance of the Client's designated account. The Client cannot withdraw or utilize these earmarked funds until the merchant completes the pre-authorization, the Client settles the payment, or the merchant/acquiring institution requests payment from Bank SinoPac on the debiting date, when the earmarked amount will be released and, subsequently, the actual transaction amount shall be debited from the Cardholder's account. Bank SinoPac reserves the right to adjust the aforementioned earmarked amount and transaction frequency based on risk considerations.

 - If the Client experiences issues that are compliant with the operating standards of international organizations—such as not receiving the booked goods or services—the Client shall first seek resolution with the merchant. If the issue remains unresolved, he/she may submit the necessary documents as required by Bank SinoPac and proceed according to Article XI ("Procedures for Questionable Charges") without being restricted by the provision in the preceding paragraph.
 - The provision in the preceding paragraph also applies to circumstances where the Cardholder makes a mail order or direct sale transaction and then cancels the purchase with the contracted merchant in accordance with Article 19 of the Consumer Protection Law.

Any notices or documents related to business matters sent to this address are deemed legally delivered after the usual mail delivery period.
11. Procedures for Questionable Charges
 - A. Should the Cardholder have queries concerning the transaction details recorded in the billing statement, he/she may provide valid reasons and supporting documents required by Bank SinoPac (e.g., sales drafts or refund notes) to seek Bank SinoPac's assistance or agree to bear the administrative fee for record retrieval as per Bank SinoPac's latest announced fee schedule and request Bank SinoPac to acquire the sales draft or refund note from the acquiring institution. When the Cardholder requests Bank SinoPac to retrieve the sales draft or refund note from the acquiring institution and agrees to bear the retrieval fee, if the investigation results reveal that the Cardholder was indeed subjected to unauthorized charges or the disputed amount is not attributable to the Cardholder, Bank SinoPac shall bear the retrieval fee.
 - B. If the Cardholder claims to temporarily withhold payment upon agreeing to pay the processing fee of the questionable charge as per international organizational guidelines, they may request Bank SinoPac to proceed with chargebacks, international arbitration, or similar claims against the acquiring institution. They may submit a request to Bank SinoPac for temporary withholding of payment for the disputed transaction.
 - C. Should payment be temporarily withheld due to questionable charge, and, if the Cardholder refuses to pay the processing fee of the questionable charge or if Bank SinoPac verifies the transaction to be accurate, or if withholding is not attributable to Bank SinoPac, the Cardholder shall promptly remit the required payment upon notification from Bank SinoPac and shall also pay Bank SinoPac an administrative fee according to its latest announced fee schedule.
 - D. In the event of a consumption dispute between the Cardholder and a merchant, Bank SinoPac shall assist and, when in doubt, shall handle the matter in favor of the consumer.
12. Earmarking and Payment
 - A. The Cardholder agrees that at the point of transaction, Bank SinoPac is authorized to earmark the amount payable within the maximum available balance of the designated debit account (the amount cannot be withdrawn or accessed by the Cardholder). The earmarked amount will be debited once the merchant or the acquiring institution requests the appropriate payment from Bank SinoPac.
 - B. Should the merchant or acquiring institution fail to request payment from Bank SinoPac within 21 calendar days from the transaction date or for Individual Income Tax and assessed tax payments (such as house tax, land value tax, license tax, fuel costs, etc.), within 50 calendar days from the transaction date, Bank SinoPac reserves the right to release the earmarked amount. Once the earmarked amount is released and the merchant or acquiring institution subsequently requests payment, the Cardholder agrees that Bank SinoPac may debit the amount from within the maximum available balance of the designated debit account.
 - C. To minimize the risk that the foreign exchange rate fluctuation leads to an insufficient amount of earmarked funds held by Bank SinoPac for payment, the Cardholder agrees that, for overseas transactions (including domestic transactions conducted via foreign websites), Bank SinoPac may initially earmark funds up to the maximum available balance within the Cardholder's designated debit account to cover the anticipated expenses or foreign withdrawals. In addition, Bank SinoPac may earmark an additional amount of up to five percent of the anticipated payable amount. The Cardholder will not be able to access or utilize these earmarked funds. Upon presenting a payment request by the merchant or acquiring institution to Bank SinoPac, Bank SinoPac will proceed with the debit payment of the owed amount. Any additional earmarked amount that has not been debited for payment should be released by Bank SinoPac.
 - D. If the maximum available balance in the designated debit account is insufficient on the date of the intended debit, the Cardholder agrees that Bank SinoPac may earmark the maximum available balance of the designated debit account and may refuse to debit the account until the Cardholder has replenished the shortfall. Upon receiving notification from Bank SinoPac, the Cardholder agrees to replenish the shortfall promptly. Before the shortfall is replenished, Bank SinoPac may refuse to debit the amount from the balance of the designated debit account.
13. Authorization for Foreign Exchange Settlement in International Transactions
 - A. All transactions conducted with the debit card shall be settled either in NTD or a mutually agreed foreign currency. If the transaction (including refunds) is not conducted in NTD, the Cardholder may choose to settle it either in a mutually agreed foreign currency or by converting the USD settlement amount provided by the international organization, or the original transaction amount, to its NTD equivalent at Bank SinoPac's prevailing interest rate two working days prior to the debit date. A foreign transaction service fee will be imposed, including a fee of 0.5% of the transaction amount charged by Bank SinoPac and a 1% fee charged by the international organization. Due to operational or industry-specific factors (e.g., hotels, airlines, car rentals, online transactions, etc.), the merchant requests payment may differ from the transaction date. Consequently, the exchange rate used for some transactions for clearing may vary from the rate on the day of the transaction (including payment and refund requests), and the Cardholder is responsible for bearing the risk of any foreign exchange rate difference.

- B. The Cardholder authorizes Bank SinoPac to act as their foreign exchange settlement agent within the territory of the Republic of China for all transactions conducted overseas using the card. Should the amount of exchange settlement payable by the Cardholder be the legal limit, the Cardholder must make payment in foreign currency for the amount that exceeds the legal limit.
14. Circumstances of Card Loss or Theft
- A. Should the Cardholder's debit card be lost, stolen, robbed, fraudulently acquired, or otherwise possessed by a third party not being the Client (hereinafter referred to as "Loss or Theft, etc."), the Cardholder shall promptly (within 24 hours from the time such event occurs) notify Bank SinoPac by phone or other means to initiate the card loss suspension procedure and pay a card replacement fee according to Bank SinoPac's latest published fee schedule. If deemed necessary, Bank SinoPac reserves the right to require the Cardholder to report to local police authorities within three days of receiving notice or notify Bank SinoPac in writing within ten days of initiating the loss report. The above-mentioned replacement fee may be subject to adjustment by Bank SinoPac; however, such adjustments shall be prominently disclosed on the business premises or the Bank SinoPac website.

- a. Unauthorized use occurring more than 24 hours after reporting the card loss.
- b. The signature signed by the unauthorized user on the sales draft is visibly different to the naked eye from the signature of the Cardholder or identifiably different from the signature of the Cardholder had the due diligence of a good administrator been exercised.
- c. The unauthorized user engages in a signature-exempt transaction at a contracted merchant, as permitted for transactions below a specific amount by Bank SinoPac, and it is confirmed that said the Cardholder did not initiate a transaction. There is no collusion between the Cardholder and the unauthorized user.

The stipulation of a deductible shall not be applicable herein.
15. Card Reissuance, Replacement, and Renewal upon Expiration
- A. Should the Cardholder's debit card be lost or stolen, smudged, demagnetized, scratched, or no longer usable due to other reasons, Bank SinoPac may issue a new card upon the Cardholder's request and charge a fee as per its most recent fee schedule.
- B. The debit card shall take effect from the date of issuance and remain valid through the last day of the month, indicated as the expiration date on the card.
- C. If Bank SinoPac has not terminated the contract, it should notify the cardholder who has provided valid contact information for issuing a new card upon approaching the debit card's expiration date. Nevertheless, the Cardholder hereby agrees that, in the event of the termination, suspension, or unavailability of the debit card functionality, Bank SinoPac may, at its sole discretion, choose not to renew the debit card in accordance with considerations such as risk, security, the Cardholder's financial status, credit history, and repayment history. However, when the debit card expires, it may still function as a general bank card, notwithstanding being incapacitated for transactions requiring signature-based authorization. The Cardholder agrees to abide by and fulfill the terms and conditions stipulated in the deposit account agreement and the general bank card agreement.
16. Offset and Discharge

The prematurely redeemed funds may then be set off against the obligations owed by the Cardholder under this Agreement.
- B. Bank SinoPac shall notify the Cardholder in writing of its intent to execute a set-off, specifying the reasons, types, and amounts of set-offs, which shall be conducted in the following order:
- a. Obligations already due shall be offset first, followed by those not yet due.
- b. For set-offs involving deposits, those deposits with lower prevailing interest rates shall be offset first.

If the Cardholder has any objection, he or she shall notify Bank SinoPac to terminate the Agreement.
- B. For any changes in the following matters, Bank SinoPac shall notify the Cardholder in writing or through pre-agreed electronic documents sixty days prior to the said change and shall clearly state the change items stated in specific wording and contain the clauses before and after the change, and inform the Cardholder that he/she may raise any objections before the change take

(hereinafter "Bank SinoPac") for claims for disputed billings (hereinafter "Procedure for Resolution of Disputed Billings") against MasterCard International Inc. (hereinafter "International Organization") are summarized as follows:

1. The term “products or services not provided” refers to instances that reserved products are not transferred by the designated store, or when the quantity is not correct, or when cash is borrowed in advance from automated equipment without receiving the money or if the quantity is not correct.
2. If products or services are not provided, the card owner should contact the store to attempt to resolve the dispute. If not resolved, the cardholder may gather relevant evidence and apply for dispute resolution with Bank SinoPac within 15 working days before the dispute account deduction deadline. However, if the disputed transaction appears on the credit card bill as “XXX (electronic payment name) TWQR cross-institutional shopping transaction”, the cardholder should request dispute resolution from the electronic payment institution first.
3. The cardholder may apply to the card issuer for dispute over the billing amount of same transaction one time only. Regarding the chargeback of the disputed billing amount for products or services not provided, the deadlines of respective international credit card organizations are as follows:
 - A. In cases where the goods have not been received, the claim must be filed within 120 calendar days starting from the transaction settlement date or the mutually agreed delivery date.
 - B. If services are not provided:
 - a. For one-time service, the claim must be filed within 120 calendar days starting from the transaction settlement date or the mutually agreed service provision date.
 - b. The service discontinues (not one-time services), the claim must be filed within 120 calendar days starting from the transaction settlement date or when the merchant fails to provide the service. However, the retrospective period may not exceed 540 calendar days from the transaction settlement date.
4. The term “transaction settlement date” refers to the date the acquiring institution delivers the transaction data to the settlement organization for data processing. Cardholders may contact Bank SinoPac for details concerning each transaction's settlement date.

For Procedure for Resolution of Disputed Billings, the International Organization retains the ultimate authority to draft or amend rules, present interpretation, and arbitrate disputes between member institutions. Consequently, initiating a dispute claim does not necessarily guarantee that the cardholder will be refunded or that the unpaid installments will be waived.
6. If the Cardholder purchases with a fulfillment period exceeding the terms stipulated by the International Organization, the Cardholder will not be able to resolve such disputes through the International Organization once that period has elapsed. Consequently, Cardholders should prudently assess the risk of such goods/services' unavailability before purchase.
